Missouri Valley College SABIDURIA

2003-2004

Vol. 87 500 E. College, Marshall, Mo. 65340 (660) 831-4211

Several new features can be found in this year's Sabiduria. The yearbook was expanded by 15 pages to accommodate more photos and subjects, such as the new tennis program, the return of student government, and a page dedicated to the growing international community.

Using the fall semester ID photos from the Campus Life Office's new ID system for the first time, this yearbook probably presents more individual student photos than ever before. ID photos were not included in the yearbook if they were too dark or had other technical problems or if students requested that their photos not be shared.

The Sabiduria staff would like to thank all who contributed photos, including the Campus Life Office, Scott Latham and the Sports Information Office, Mark Bertrand and the Alumni/Development Office, Mike and Shirley McKay, Sharon Hoeflicker, Sarah Swenson, Tatiana Toliver, Allan Wilson, Marisa Paver, and others.

Sabiduria would also like to thank Loren Gruber, Mike Kenagy, Bonnie Humphrey, Joyce Clause, Marsha Lashley and the Registrar's Office, Jessica D. Miller and the Business Office, Scott McKay, the Josten's yearbook company, the IT Office, and others who provided assistance in many different ways. We hope you enjoy the memories.

Yearbook staff:

Editor: Amy Neff

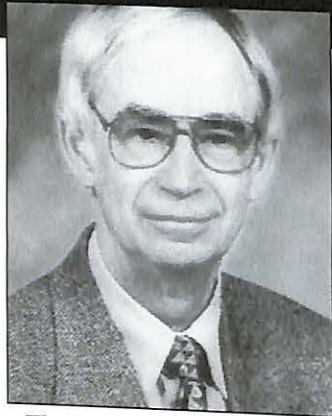

Staff Members: Douglas Biggs, Amanda Broyles, Tim Carbol, Katie Cross, Jennifer Davis, Jody Galloway, Emily Getzloff, Rob Hardy, Amanda Hendrix, Kierstin Hyatt, Ronan McCann, Noraida Negron, Emma Nugent, Katie Peters, Jaron Rimson, Ryann Schmidt, Jarrod Schwartz, Amy Shimek, Jayson Thornton, Kristy Titcomb

Photographers: Emmanuel Cardenas, Jessica Casperson, Tyson Ferreira, Kali French, Stephanie Hinkle, Sara Kolokotsas, Jasmine McDowell, Dedra Roark

Assistants: Amanda Burris, Kevin Conrey, Amber Nunnery, Vannessa Wimsatt

Faculty Adviser: David L. Roberts

Missouri Valley College, 2003-2004

The Rev. Al Bunch, who taught religion courses, died in early March. He was 71. He will be greatly missed.

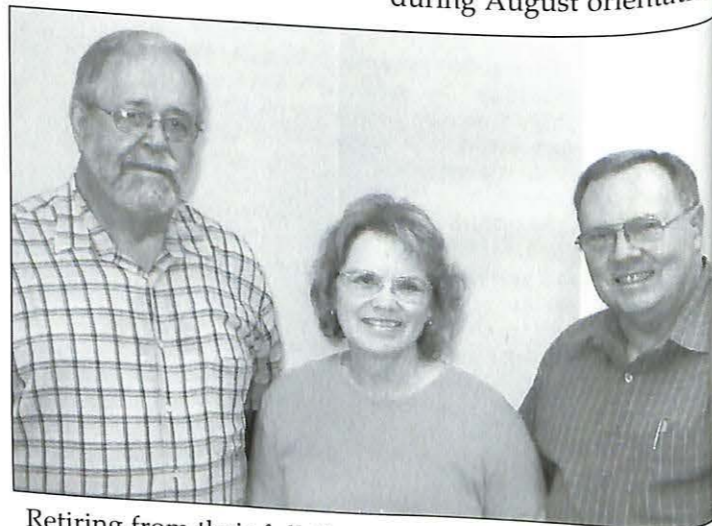

Tennis became a competitive Valley sport this year.

Not only was May 8 the day that Melissa Hobson and Matthew Shields graduated with MVC business degrees, it was also their wedding day. Congratulations to the happy couple!

Though he will remain as a member of the faculty, Loren Gruber, professor of English and Mass Communication, retired from his role as Arts and Humanities Division dean at the end of May.

Retiring from their full-time academic work at Missouri Valley College this year are (from left) Les Schmeding, assistant professor of Business Administration; Luann Wymore, associate professor of Education; and John R. "Scotty" Campbell, dean of the Business Division and associate professor of Business Administration.

Like every year, 2003-2004 school year at Missouri Valley College was unique and memorable.

It was a time to build new friendships and strengthen old ones.

It was a time of changes, improvements, expansion, and development for campus and educational programs.

It was a time to learn and study and to take tests and to be tested in ways of intellect, creativity, quality, and dedication.

It was a time to appreciate others for what they had done and to say "thank you" to those who teach and care and add to the spirit of the community.

It was a time to grow and share and challenge and achieve. And to chart the paths for the future.

2003-2004 at Missouri Valley College was a year to remember.

A new sign to provide MVC information was erected at Odell and College.

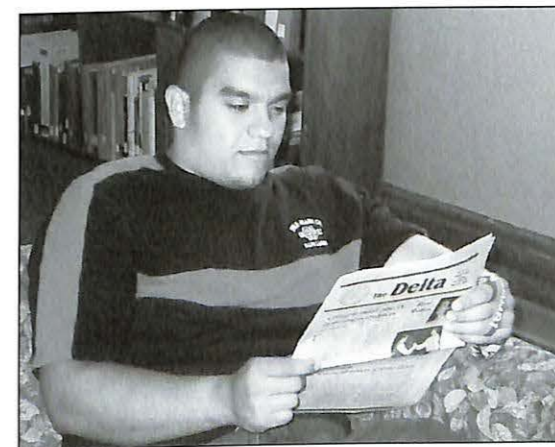

Freshmen met new friends during August orientation.

2004

MVC friends: Becca Forshee (front), Katie Crawford, Amanda Burris, Brandi Bockman, and Janelle Pruitt.

Matt Uribe reads a Delta newspaper at the Murrell Memorial Library.

Humanics program earns national recognition

The American Humanics Student Association, which originated at Missouri Valley College, received top national attention, in the form of the "Excellence in Internships" award during the annual American Humanics Management Institute in Kansas City in January. The group also took national runner-up to the "Overall Program Excellence" award. The nonprofit organization blossomed out of MVC in 1948 and is now seeded in 84 colleges and universities across the nation. The local group raises money for contributions to the college and community, helps build houses with Habitat for Humanity, and participates in other activities.

Chapel (and Bible Study Groups)

Throughout the year, students attended nondenominational gatherings at the Stewart Chapel, under the guidance of the Chapel program (MVC Chaplain's Office) or through individual Bible study groups. Besides teaching courses, such as "Introduction to World Religion" and "Ethics," the Rev. Tim Kiser as MVC's chaplain led the way in providing the college's spiritual mission. Among the many duties, Kiser provided religious information and guidance for students and conducted the memorial service for the Rev. Al Bunch. Kiser also organized a special showing of the movie "The Passion of the Christ." Numerous Bible study groups met on campus, including "Soldiers for Christ," organized by Greg Gaumer, Tiana Williams, Aaron Brecht, and Melody Wiegert.

The Delta

The Delta newspaper implemented a features look for its monthly editions which included diverse QuarkXPress layouts, and digital and 35mm photos. Delta editors in chief during the year were Kierstin Hyatt, Bridget J. Eischeid, and Jessica Casperson. The photo editor was Stephanie Hinkle and the arts editor was Hilary Ford. Ad managers were Emily Getzloff and Rob Hardy. Photographers included Emmanuel Cardenas, Tyson Ferreira, Kali French, Jasmine McDowell, Dedra Roark. Faculty advisers were David L. Roberts and Harry Carrell. Delta stories involved the hazing policy, a Vietnam War course, an interview with actor Bill Pullman, the proposed public relations major, an interview with news anchor Carmen Ainsworth, student housing changes, and many other subjects. Some Delta students also had stories published in special Marshall Democrat-News sections, edited by Chris Post. The Delta web-pages also reappeared on the www.moval.edu website, with the assistance of Liberti Tietjens of the Computer Tech office.

'KISS ME KATE'

"Kiss Me Kate," the first musical comedy of the semester, is a show within a play. Fred Graham, played by Mike Amoroso, is producing a musical version of Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew," that is financed by his ex-wife Lilli Vanessi, played by Cayla Dunaway. When one of Graham's actors gambles away $10,000 and signs Graham's name on the IOU, Graham faces gangster trouble. Comedy, music, drama, and dance are all part of the play, directed by Geoff Howard, with musical direction by Diana Malan and choreography by Sarah Swenson. Assistant director was Hilary Ford. Viking Varsity

The Valley season started with great anticipation because of many returning seniors and an impressive 8-2 record from the previous year. After suffering some costly losses, the Vikings were in danger of a losing season. They pulled through with consecutive wins at the end of the season to give Valley a very respectable 5-5 record.

MEN'S BASKETBALL

Squad Up!

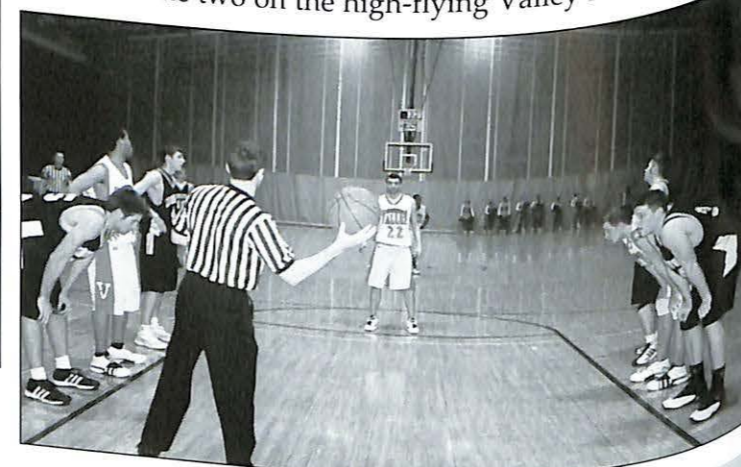

The Missouri Valley Vikings introduced to Valley a new head coach and 11 new faces on the court, and together brought winning basketball back to Valley. The team finished 17-16 and reached a top 25 ranking for the first time in more than a decade. As seniors Eric Hunolt, Darin Rehkop, and Jarrod Sanderson graduate from the team, they leave behind them a winning season. Holiday Events

The Christmas holiday season was filled with the song, dance, comedy and drama of college events. The "Celebration of Christmas" music show, featuring the Valley Connection show choir and Gospel Singers, at Eckilson-Mabee Theatre Dec. 4 and 5, started a busy week-and-a-half of performances. "The Festival of Nine Lessons and Carols," featuring the MVC Concert Choir, the Covenant Presbyterian Church Choir and the Bueker Children's Choir, was held at the Covenant Presbyterian Church on Dec. 7. In the evening of the same day, "That's Amore--Love," a musical journey through the aspects of love was creatively presented by the Music Theatre Workshop class. On Dec. 9, Eckilson-Mabee Theatre was the site of the "Fall Performing Arts Showcase," featuring performances from the Theatre, Dance and Music departments. Completing the holiday season was "The Bob and Al Show" play on Dec. 11 and 12.

Teacher of the Year Award:

Diana Malan

Diana Malan, associate professor of Music and Theatre, was the 2004 recipient of the John McCallum Award for Excellence in Teaching.

Graduating from MVC in 1974, she returned to develop the Career Planning and Placement Center in 1982, during which time she organized an activity-style choir for students. It grew into the present-day Gospel and Show Choir. Working in this area as well as serving as registrar for eight years, Diana began full-time teaching in 1990. She earned her master's degree in Theatre from Lindenwood University in 1992. She is a member of the Theatre honorary Alpha Psi Omega, the Senior Scholastic Honor Society, Alpha Sigma Tau, and is listed in Who's Who Among Colleges and Universities. She is respected by her colleagues and much loved by her students.

Staff Member of the Year Award: Joyce Clause

Joyce Clause, assistant to the registrar, was the 2004 recipient of the Chad Freeman Staff Excellence Award. She started at MVC in Dec. 1975 in the Development Office, helping with public relations. She worked briefly at the switchboard, then, for the past 20 years, in the Registrar's Office. Joyce and her husband, Roy, have three sons and one daughter-in-law who attended Valley. Three grandchildren also attend college here.

Years of Service, also recognized at the Faculty/Staff/Board of Trustees Banquet on May 7--

15 Years: Carl Gass, Mike Machholz, Johnny Norris, Les Schmeding, Luann Wymore;

10 Years: Randy Larson; 5 Years: Anna Gass, Charlie McFail, Ron Nielsen, Eric Thompson.

NEW AT VALLEY

Among what was new at Missouri Valley College for the 2003-2004 school year:

- Cafeteria renovations, including new carpet, banners, and expanded salad bar.
- Viking Mart, the convenience shop sold pop and food throughout the day.
- The tennis sports program.
- The new message sign at College and Odell.
- The new Barnes and Noble bookstore.
- The new flagpoles dedicated to the V12 and V5 Navy training unit on campus during WWII.
- Renovations to the Morrison arts building.
- Central air conditioning for 10 campus houses, Morrison building, and Blosser Hall.
- Renovated student lounge, located in Mac Hall, with big screen TV, games, and food, and an office for Student Government.
- New presentation rooms in Baitly Hall and Science Center.
- New counseling center with services provided by Charlotte Neville, licensed clinical social worker.
- Renovation work in Baitly Hall.
- Students enjoyed the capability of checking out popular videos at Murrell Memorial Library. More than 500 of the videos were donated by Reed Kepner.

- Associated Press 2003 awards: Male Athlete of the Year--Lance Armstrong (bicycle racing); Female Athlete of the Year--Annika Sorenstam (golf).

National issues of debate in 2003-2004: Iraq War, record federal budget deficit, gay marriage, the U.S. Patriot Act, foreign out-sourcing of jobs.

NEWS of 2003-2004

The top three stories of 2003, as listed by Associated Press in Dec. 2003, were:
 1). The Iraq War;
 2). The Columbia space shuttle disaster;
 and
 3). The California gubernatorial recall.

News events for Spring 2004 were:
 1). The emergence of Senator John Kerry as the leading Democratic candidate for president;
 2). The Iraqi prisoner abuse scandal;
 3). Janet Jackson's wardrobe "mal-function" at the Super Bowl half-time show.

As of June 1, 2004, more than 800 American soldiers had been killed in the Iraq War (and occupation), with 4,682 soldiers wounded. U.S. troops deployed in Iraq: 138,000.
