ATHLETICS

Book Two

Football

COACH Henri Godfriaux's excellent coaching was one of the greatest factors in determining the success of the 1928 football team. His constant and untiring efforts in daily workouts resulted in his team playing in harmonious unison.

DR. GEORGE T. NUCKLES has done a great deal in keeping the squad in good shape during this season. We extend to him our highest appreciation for his work that helped the Vikings towards success in 1928 and 1929.

HORACE SALYER

Captain Horace "Red" Salyer, all-conference halfback, is probably the most colorful and spectacular player that Valley ever had. A great passer and interferer; possessing unusual speed and drive. This thing has marked him: four years of consistent play, without injury in a single game. His personality has brought only honor and praise to the name of Viking.

MILESS HAGGARD

"Mike"—Co-captain-elect for 1929—was the key man of Valley's line smashing attack. A big, fast, shifty, smart, and most consistent player is Haggard. He possessed the unusual combination of ability for both broken field running and line smashing. Haggard with Salyer composed the feared pair of offensive players in the conference.

CECIL PATTERSON

"Pat," an all-conference end and a "triple threat" man. A shifty ball carrier possessing great speed and the other qualities of an all-round athlete. A sensational football player famous for his long-end runs that carry Valley on to victory.

PATRICK PHELAN

"Pat"—co-captain-elect for 1929—is all brains and all Irish; a credit to his race and to his school. He is a great defensive center against any attack. Often outweighed but never outplayed. His brilliant playing in the Westminster game, of blocking two punts, tied the game for Valley. His genteel sportsmanship is not to be excelled by any player.

KENNETH CONRAD

Kenneth is a sturdy foe to the opposing ball carriers. His dependableness and coolness of mind and action, have made him an asset to the Viking team. Conrad has come to mean: "Plenty of power."

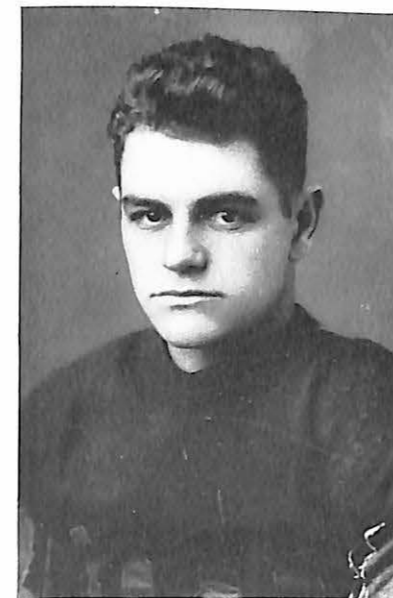

PERCY GILL

Gill, a powerful end, playing his first year of college football; but he fits into the combination like a veteran. Another "triple threat" man. A cool player always. His punting in the Westminster game was superb.

RAYMOND CASSIDY

"Lead," Valley's big, powerful, slow rolling tackle, who doesn't treat ball carriers with much care. His Irish determination was an inspiration in the Viking ranks.

VOLNEY ASHFORD

Ashford—our third "triple threat" man. This uncanny, signal-calling quarterback is truly a master strategist. His passing ability has made him outstanding.

GEORGE BROCK

George, a fearless, rough and aggressive, knifing, type of tackle. A brute for punishment. This phrase seems to best fit him: "A player with a great fighting heart."

VIRGIL BLOSSOM

"Bloom," giant tackle of Valley's team. A big, powerful player with a "never quit" spirit. He displayed unusual ability to get through the opponents' line and bring down the ball carrier in his tracks. To this big player goes the greater part of the victory over William Jewell.

ORVILLE WRIGHT

We are proud to claim Wright. His personality and perseverance are rare. Going through the trials of scrubdom undaunted, he won the long coveted "V" in his Senior year.

CLIFTON WILCOX

"Tony," our fast defensive quarterback. He was a rough and ready, skillful, ball lugger. A hard fighter until the last whistle.

FRANCIS TRIMBLE

Trimble, the midget of the Viking team. A heady player, shifty, speedy, cool-minded quarterback; returning punts is a specialty of his and he does it in a most creditable manner. As a ball lugger he is a threat that any team would be glad to have.

ROBERT VANWINKLE

"Rip," the sterling member of Valley's much feared ball lugging trio. He possessed a football heart and was an unmerciful tackler. He also displayed speed and strength as a ball carrier.

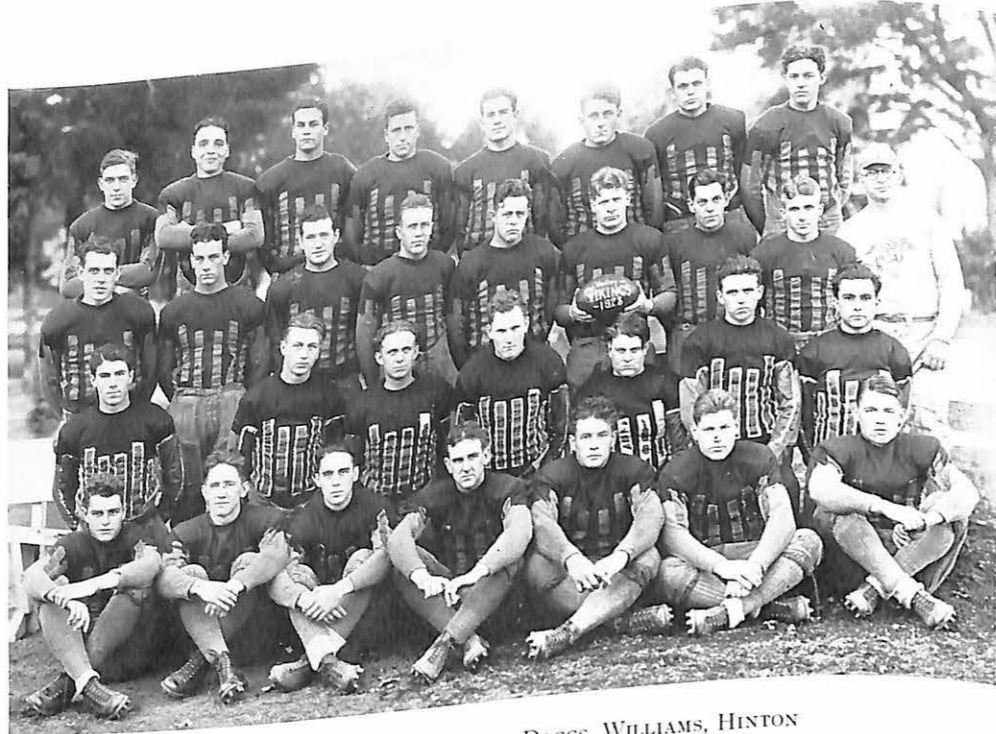

ALFRED WENZEL

Wenzel won his first letter this year. He was an efficient pass receiver and had a sure method of getting at tackles. He has great prospects for the future.

OTHA RAWLINGS

"Opie," playing his first year of college football, played it well. A great defensive fighter, smart, rough, and plays the game because he likes it.

*First row—ASHFORD, PHELAN, STANFIELD, WRIGHT, DAGGS, WILLIAMS, HINTON
 Second row—WENZEL, BURLINGAME, HESS, HUME, HOPKINS, JETER, SHINKLE
 Third row—CONRAD, VANWINKLE, WETTON, PATTERSON, HAGGARD, SALYER, WILCOX, TRIMBLE, COACH GODFRIAUX
 Fourth row—CHANDLER, BROCK, GILL, BLOSSOM, FEEBACK, CASSIDAY, RAWLINGS, AMOS*

MISSOURI Valley enjoyed a most successful football season during the year of 1928. We are proud of these fellows who have given their fight and loyalty to put Missouri Valley near the top. Their record is one that any team should boast of and be proud of. They were tied by Westminster by a score of 12 to 12, and their only defeat was by Central with a score of 9 to 0. The final Conference standing was Central, first, and Missouri Valley College, second.

The pictures of James Wetton and William B. Daggs, who are football letter men, do not appear in this section as the staff was unable to obtain their pictures and wishes to make special mention of them in this way.

Basket Ball

FOR a number of years Basket Ball has been one of the major sports at Missouri Valley. The people of Marshall and all Viking rooters have never in past years been enthusiastic about basket ball as they have football or other major sports.

But this year conditions changed somewhat. The bleachers were full every night, the team had a body behind them to keep up their spirit and something to help them closer to victory. Missouri Valley has come into its own and does not think of basket ball as the mere taste of defeat night after night.

On looking over the season scores it shows Missouri Valley won five games. But victories do not count everything and scores do not show all. Many of the games that put Missouri Valley on the small end of the score, did not seem as such to the spectators. There was that vim and fight that held interest to the last, and the improvement of the team as the season progressed proves that the fellows were giving all they had.

Basket Ball

MIKE HAGGARD—Captain of the 1929 squad, all-conference guard on the second mythical team. Mike always had fight to spare and was in the game until the final whistle was blown.

VOLNEY ASHFORD—Captain-elect of the 1930 squad. A brainy forward who can be depended upon as a real leader for the ensuing year. With two more years of play, Volney should prove himself an all-conference man.

HORACE SALYER
Guard

CECIL PATTERSON
Forward

Basket Ball

"RED" SALYER—Completed his last year for Valley, and his deadly aim for the loop on long shots gave him a high percentage for the season. A real sportsman.

"PAT" PATTERSON—Pat has completed his third year of basket ball for Valley and is a type of forward that is poison under the basket. His uncanny long shots provided many a thrill for the spectators.

MELVIN FEEBACK
Forward

PERCY GILL
Center and Forward

Basket Ball

MELVIN FEEBACK—Playing his first year of college basket ball has been spoken of as the fastest floor-man Valley ever had. His strength and value to the team lay in his ability to keep the other fellow guessing.

PERCY GILL—Percy, the big boy who played forward and center with equal ability, improved with the season. The Westminster game proved this. He should be a mainstay next year. A fine all-around athlete with three years to go.

GEORGE BROCK
Center

ADRIAN HESS
Forward

OTHA RAWLINGS
Guard

Basket Ball

GEORGE BROCK—A letterman from last year, and was among the starting ones in many games. He plays both guard and center well. A scrapper and always gave the very best he had.

ADRIAN HESS—Had his big games, and could always be depended upon for a counter. With one more year, he should be a real forward. His speed kept the Viking spirit flying high.

"OPIE" RAWLINGS—Opie played a good guard position and will be back next year with his old fight that will win him a letter in basket ball.

Baseball

IN 1928, as soon as the basket ball season was over, Coach Godfriaux issued a call for baseball men. Six lettermen of 1927 and a large number of new men answered the call. The lettermen were Haggard, Salyer, Patterson, Brown, Frerking and Hess. Cecil Patterson was elected Captain.

The hurling staff was greatly weakened when Louis Fette, star hurler, left school to turn professional. Haggard and Salyers, aided by Kriekhaus, bore the brunt of the hurling. Haggard led the batting with the fine percentage of .493. He also scored the most runs, crossing the plate twenty-two times in fourteen games. Captain Patterson led the team in home runs with four, closely followed by Ashford with three.

Valley won six games out of fourteen. Some of these games were against the strongest college teams in the country. Missouri Valley played Wentworth at Marshall for the initial game. Valley won easily with a score of 15 to 2. The same two teams played at Lexington a few days later. The Cadets put up a hard fight and did not give up until Patterson poled a home run with two on base in the eighth inning. The game ended with a score of 8 to 4.

On April 10, Missouri Valley went to Fayette to meet their ancient rival—the Eagles. The game went eleven innings, Valley winning when Patterson again clouted a home run—this time with one man on base. On April 19, the same two teams met at Marshall. Central carried away the day with a score of 9 to 6.

St. Benedict, from Atchison, Kansas, came to engage Valley in a tussle. Valley won a slugfest from them, 13 to 11. They had revenge the next week when Missouri Valley went to Atchison. Kriekhaus twirled a fine game but he was given poor support, losing 4 to 2.

Baseball

THE next day the Vikings journeyed to St. Marys for a two-game series. St. Marys won both games easily, 7 to 2 and 9 to 0. Culver-Stockton then came to Marshall for a two-game series. Valley romped away with both games, 12 to 3 and 13 to 2. The next week, Valley went to Quincy, Illinois. Quincy won a thriller 9 to 8 in ten innings.

On the following day, Valley journeyed to Canton for a two-game series with Culver-Stockton but both games were called off on account of rain. Central again took Valley into camp. Hull, Eagle pitcher, southpawed the Vikings into submission, allowing only two hits and winning 2 to 0. Central again beat Valley at Marshall 8 to 6 in ten innings. In the final game of the season, Quincy swamped Valley, 17 to 7.

The lettermen for 1928 were Captain Patterson, Salyer, Haggard, Ashford, Kriekhaus, Frerking, Tillman, Blossom, Brown and Hess.

Girls' Athletics

MISS MARGARET FAGG
Director of Girls' Athletics

THE physical education program for this year included not only the regular gymnastics but all the sports, clogging, aesthetic and ballet dancing, tumbling and apparatus work.

Technical and practical instruction is given in the sports and, at the close of the season, a class tourney is held. Spring tournaments are held in Soccer and in Hockey, and the season ends with a Field and Track Meet.

This year a Girls' Athletic Association was organized. Membership is unlimited, and one becomes a member after she has earned her required number of points by participation in athletics. The purpose of the club is to create and further interest in athletics, not any specialized sport, but to create all-around interest and ability.

Student Senate

THE Student Senate is the ruling body in the Student Government Organization of Missouri Valley College. The president of the Student Senate must be chosen from the Senate membership, and also acts as president of the Student Body.

Purposes of this organization are outlined in the Preamble of the Constitution.

THE PREAMBLE

We, the students of Missouri Valley College, in order to establish a definite system of student organization; an adequate control of student organizations, by the students, for the students; foster closer relationship between students and faculty; to endeavor to maintain the highest standard of manners and morals that is possible.

The 1929 Sabiduria

BY MEANS of the Sabiduria, Missouri Valley College brings to the attention of its students and of the public the story of life on the campus each year. A great deal of planning and thought are necessary in putting out the Annual. Each publication of the Sabiduria should mark an epoch in the life of the men and women at Missouri Valley.

The Staff endeavors to graphically display the comings and goings of the students, the happenings and events of a brilliant college year. The culmination of all their efforts is the Sabiduria, which is published for your benefit and pleasure.

THE production of the Sabiduria is not an enterprise of the Staff or the editor. It is true that most of the responsibility falls upon them, but without the cooperation and help of the entire student body and faculty, the best of results cannot be accomplished.

The Staff of the 1929 Sabiduria wishes to thank all those who have in any way aided in the publishing of the yearbook.

Men's Glee Club

CLAUDE L. FICHTHORN	Director
GEORGE J. FISHER	Student Director and Accompanist
NOEL FERGUSON	Business Manager
ROBERT THOMPSON	Secretary

THE Men's Glee Club this year was one of the best in the history of the College. The Club made a very successful tour through Southern and Central Missouri which included Nevada, Golden City, Carthage, Springfield, Warrensburg, Kansas City, Higginsville, Glasgow and Slater.

The splendid program this year consisted of several ensemble numbers by the Glee Club; vocal solos by Robert Landrum and Charles Bacon, that were very efficiently rendered; violin duet by Robert Thompson and Robert Hoy; trumpet solo by Wylie Steen; several quartet selections; a bit of College life by Robert Thompson and Mark Holcomb; and a reading by Charles Bacon.

Wylie Steen, Alumni and Field Secretary for the College, acted as "House Mother" for the boys on their trip.

Girls' Glee Club

CLAUDE L. FICHTHORN	Director
JESSAMINE TARVER	Student Director
KATHLEEN HENSHAW	Business Manager
MARY ELIZABETH PERRY	Treasurer
DORIS SMITH	Accompanist

FROM a chorus of forty women, twenty and a student director were selected by Prof. C. L. Fichthorn, dean of the School of Music, to compose the membership of the Women's Glee Club. During the year the Club presented a number of programs, secular and sacred, to audiences in Marshall and in nearby towns.

Annually the Club makes a long trip out in the State. This year they chartered a bus and made a ten days' tour of towns in northeast Missouri. Concerts were given in the following towns: Slater, Chillicothe, Brookfield, Marceline, LaPlata, Macon, Moberly, Vandalia, Sullivan, St. Louis, and East St. Louis, Illinois.

There were a number of ensemble selections on the program and a group of songs by the quartette composed of Frances Lou Fletcher, Eleanor Ault, Genevieve Everett, and Priscilla Mart. Mary Sweeney and Irma Sobolewski were the soloists and Mary Elizabeth Perry presented violin numbers. Ernestine O'Neal gave a reading. There was also included in the program a playlet, "Elizabeth's Young Man."

The Orchestra and Band

THE study of instrumental music as represented by the orchestra and band in the College is assuming a role of ever increasing importance. Both organizations are under the direction of Professor A. T. Vawter.

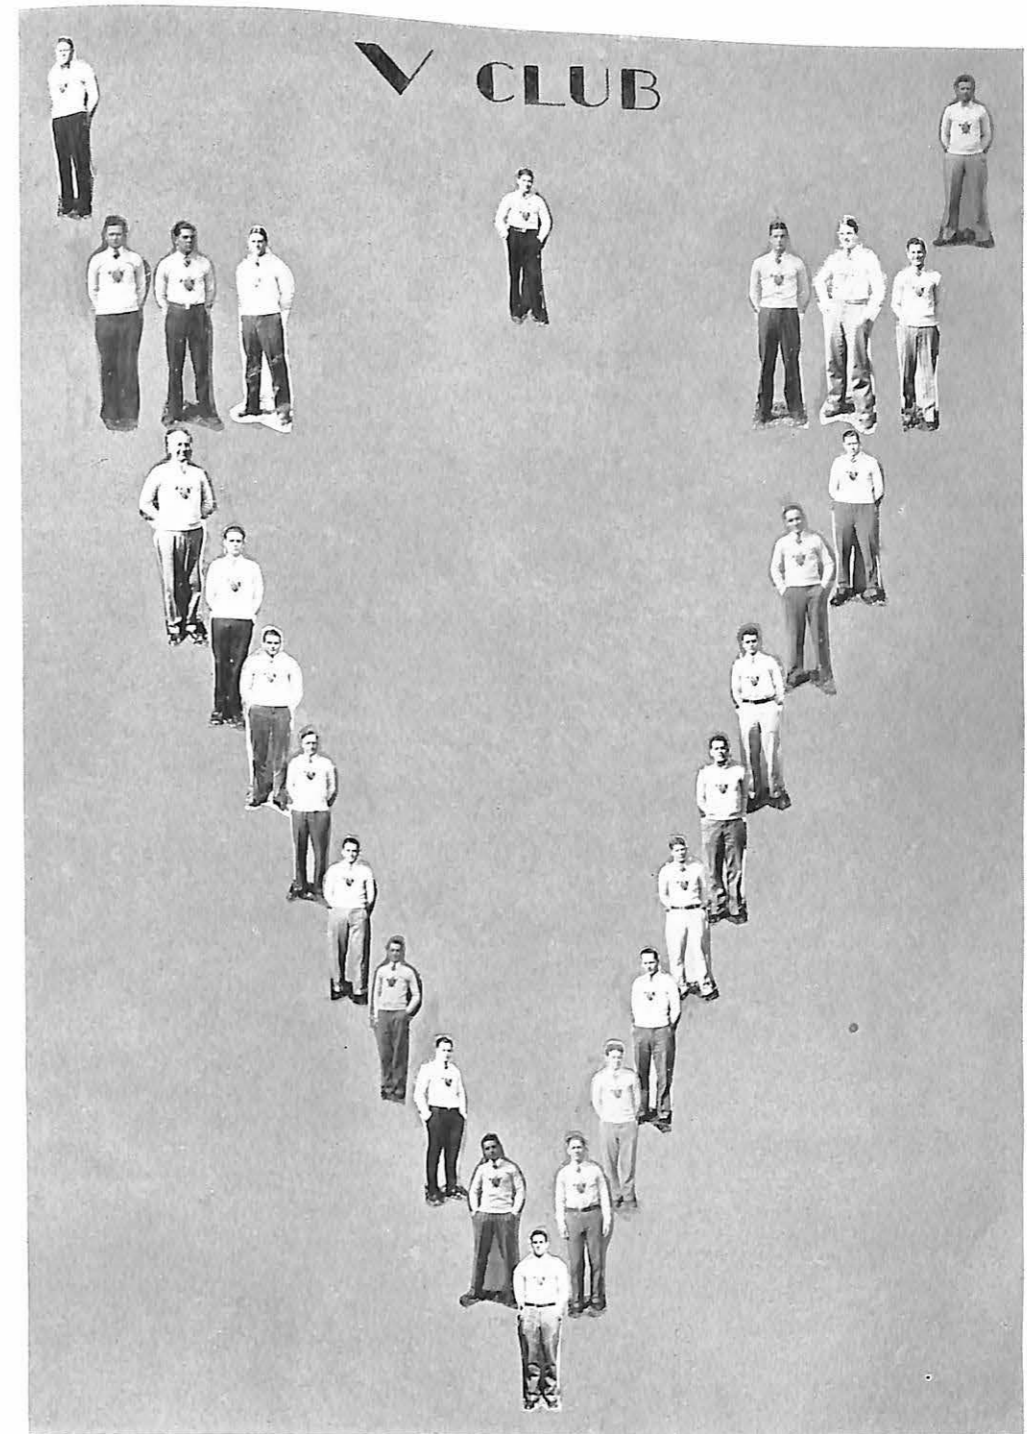

In the schools of the small community and consolidated schools is found an increasing demand for teachers who can qualify for the instruction of orchestra and band. Some of the work done along this line is of decided merit.

The young people of the College can find no better training than that provided by the participation in the orchestra and band. Students in general have gradually come to the realization that music is for everybody and is becoming more and more a necessary part of a complete education.

When the serious work of making a living after graduation, is entered upon, a knowledge of music gives a well-grounded view of life and its problems. The idea that music is simply a means of entertainment is rapidly losing ground and results are proving the value of orchestra and band training in the College.

One of the values to the College student from participation in the orchestra or band is the ability to co-operate with others, which largely governs the success of whatever kind of work he or she may enter after graduation.

A successful orchestra or band will impress its hearers by being able to play as a unit, which develops the concentration, attention and alertness of the individual player. A good orchestra and band is one of the best advertisements the College can have.

Christian Associations

AS AN activity in the student life of Missouri Valley College, the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. furnish a channel for religious discussions and Christian experiences. On Thursday morning during the Chapel period, both organizations meet in their respective rooms and regular weekly devotional meetings are held. The programs afford the students of the College the privilege of hearing many of the business and professional men from town speak.

Each year the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. sponsor what is known at Missouri Valley as Vocational Week. This year it took place during the week of March 18, when Dr. E. B. Whitcomb of St. Joseph had charge of the services.

The new students became acquainted with the Christian Associations in the early fall when the joint Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. "Get Acquainted" party was held. This party has for years been a prominent social event at Missouri Valley College.

Dramatic Arts Club

THE Dramatic Arts Club is the largest organization on the campus, having a limited membership of sixty-five. It has as its purpose the presenting of better plays and the development of dramatic ability.

This year the Club has undertaken the equipping of a new stage in the Assembly Hall. A new curtain has been purchased and new scenery is to be added from time to time. Here three major plays are given during the year.

Under the direction of Prof. M. C. Hays, "The Patsy" was given December 4th. The leads were taken by Imogene Ault, Robert Thompson, Edna Cox, Earl Fritz and Eleanor Ault. The second, a mystery play, "The Cat O' Nine Tails," under the direction of Miss Dorothy Ganfield, was given March 26th. Leads were taken by Mildred Hartman, Robert Landrum, Marie McIntosh, George Brock, Nadyne Phillips, William Harriman, Helen Louise Farmer, and Wilson Brown.

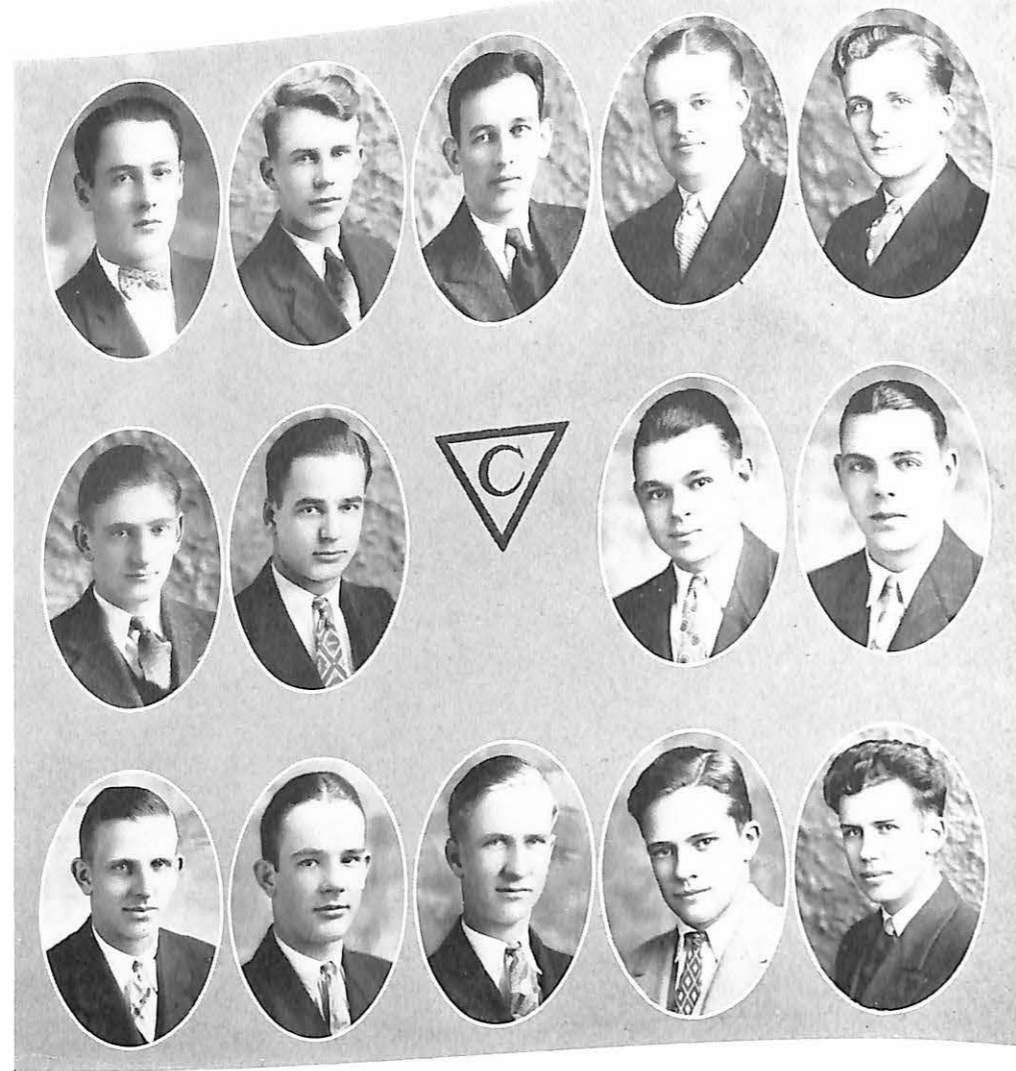

The third was a musical comedy, "The Mikado," given during Commencement Week.

Each year the Dramatic Arts Club has two major social functions. On October 23rd, Miss Inez Johnson was hostess to the Club at the Marshall Country Club. The May meeting is given over to a banquet when the officers for the following year are presented and installed.

Humor

ENTER into this gate and live, love, and laugh. Last year's "Sab" gave the riddles, jokes, and what have you—that came over on the Mayflower—a vacation. Now! After two years of rest, settle down and live your funny events over again; love the things that tickled you, and laugh. (If you are not used to laughing, just smile.) But, first of all, we will dedicate one of these cobwebby jokes to the humor section of the 1928 "Sab". Then, see if our sense of humor does not improve with exercise. So here goes, "the ancient to the ancients."

Teacher: "A fool can ask more questions than a wise man can answer."
 Student: "No wonder I flunked!"

Do You Recognize These Students?

The tallest girl . . . . .	MARY FRANCES CARPENTER
The shortest boy . . . . .	WILLARD PAGE
The quietest student . . . . .	GENEVIEVE EVERETT
The best athlete . . . . .	REUBEN HUME
The best pals . . . . .	BLOSSOM AND CASSIDY
The most talented student . . . . .	ALBERT STAATS
The peppiest student . . . . .	MCCUNE ROBERTSON

Dr. Pettijohn: J. W., what are the four bases?
 J. W.: First base, second base, third base, and home.

Prof. Fichthorn: Sallie, put your finger where you are singing.
 Sallie M. promptly put her finger in her mouth.

Prof. Vawter: There is just one instrument we don't want played in our orchestra, and that's the fool.

Can it be so?

- R. Wilson Brown not criticizing.
- Volney without Zelma.

Here and There Among the Students

One of our members trying to bawl us out for our poor creative ability.
"What's the matter? What's the matter? Copying all of the time. Why I never in all my life was engaged in any act, enterprise, or deed that I wouldn't want the whole world to catch me at!"

In reply to this, we would like to have George Brock, Student President, who should have authority, ask this highly centered person if—he ever takes a bath without a bathing suit on?

LINES TO A FRESHMAN

I had a pretty ring once,
A diamond, I say;
I loaned it to a lady
Who rode some miles away
She wore it and she dropped it
And she lost it in the dirt.
If I ever get my ring again
I'll not trust it to a skirt.

"Cell Studies" does not mean thoughts of county jails or prisons.
To prove it, ask Dr. Enders.

Question on Freshman's registration card: Give parent's name.
Answer: "Mamma and Papa."

How could little Red Riding Hood
Be so very, very good?
Red Riding Hood: "What big ears you have, grandmother."
Grandma: "Yes, this boyish bob shows them up frightfully."

Fred: "Do your shoes hurt?"
Pat: "No, but my feet do."

Bill: "I woke up last night with a start. I dreamed that my watch was gone."
George: "Well, was it?"
Bill: "No, but it was going."

Freshman Confession

It was in the evening,
I was leaving
For my first campus stroll.
It was near the hour of seven,
I had until eleven
To spend my measly roll.
I was dated for a show,
Titled, "Two Long Miles to Go."

The moon could have shone
On the shine of mine.
With my rolled red socks and spats above,
My suit all pressed,
With a fresh white vest,
Stiff hat, white gloves, and a rose for my love.
An Ideal Beau!
Two miles to go!

The owls they screeched
And my shoes they creaked,
As I crept toward Campbell dorm.
The lightning flashed
And the thunder crashed—
Fast rode an approaching storm.
The birds flittered to and fro,
And I, a mile and a half to go.

Into the darkness peering,
I ran ever fearing.
And oh, that demon gale!
And as clouds became thicker
I longed for my slicker
When I rounded the corner at the jail.
How the wind did blow!
Still a mile to go!

The rain, it fell in torrents,
The drops striking like hornets,
As I ran like fleeting Mercury down Odell.
In the street the Styx flowed
I with Charon rowed
Through this very Hell.
Oh! for a boat to row!
Still a half mile to go!

At last I arrived, soaked to the skin;
At the door she welcomed me in.
Around me gathered a giggling crowd—
For my pants had shrunk to a wobbling thigh,
And my coat had left my pants on high—
The laughed at me long and loud.
Then, next I discovered in one sad blow,
That it was Wednesday—she couldn't go.

—Earl "Jerry" Fritz.

Answers the Faculty Didn't Hear

Prof. Mitchell: How would you go about checking a cold?

Curtis: I'd go from house to house and count the cases.

Prof. Hayes: Can you taste electricity?

Robert: Oh, yes, sir, you get a sweet raisin' taste from all the currents there.

Miss Ganfield: Why does a society need a chairman?

Charles: To get the chairs together.

Dr. Enders: What kind of an animal is a frog?

Marie: A frog is an ambiguous animal.

Eva Frances: Dr. Spotts, what are cinnamons?

(And he is supposed to know that she means synonyms.)

EXTRACTS FROM EXAMINATION PAPERS:

1. Algebra was the wife of Euclid.
2. Water is composed of two gins, hydrogin and oxygen.
3. A litre is a nest of young puppies.
4. A welsher is a native of Wales.
5. The Golden Horn and Golden Fleece are two famous public houses.
6. Ceasar swam the Rubican because his boats were burned.
7. Alexander the Great was born in the absence of his parents.
8. Almost equally humorous is the translation of "Pas de Deaux" as "Father of Twins."

Cooperation

BOB VanWinkle and Pat Phelan had a system which they thought couldn't be beaten. As they were very much together in the classroom, it so happened that these two tried to help each other whenever possible. The idea as to how to do so scientifically never occurred to them. It was Pat's girl that finally resorted to such means because she was at her wit's end for fear that Pat wouldn't graduate. The day after date night, Phelan approached Bob and drew him into a corner.

"Bob, listen to this scheme."

"Shoot," encouraged Bob.

"When we're in classroom and either one of us gets up to recite, the other will look into the book."

"Well, what has that got to do with your scheme?"

"Dry up! Give me a chance, will you? Well, here's the idea. If a fellow reciting makes a mistake, the other fellow will give a warning cough. But should the answer be right, a snuffle will signify encouragement."

"Zookers!" said Bob, enthusiastically. "Let's try it in Ganfield's room. I need help there."

As predicted, Bob was called upon to recite.

"Who succeeded Elizabeth to the throne of England?" was the question.

"Why, er—Queen Victoria."

Pat coughed. Bob heard and blushed. "Why Charles I, I mean."

"Hum, I guess your're right," the teacher approved. "And what was his fate?"

"He was beheaded," Bob answered. He was awarded with a snuffle.

Outside the classroom, Bob and Pat shook hands joyfully.

"It worked," Bob cried. "Now we're set."

Daily the system was put to use. Professors marvelled at the super-intelligence of the two boys. Pat's girl was tickled pink with his mid-semester grades. But one day her beautiful system slipped a cog. The class happened to be discussing geography and the teacher asked, "What state exports cotton?"

"New York," said Bob. Pat sniffled—Bob kept quiet.

"Wrong! But, what's the capital of Indiana?"

"Indianapolis," Bob ventured. Pat coughed.

"I mean Springfield." Pat coughed harder.

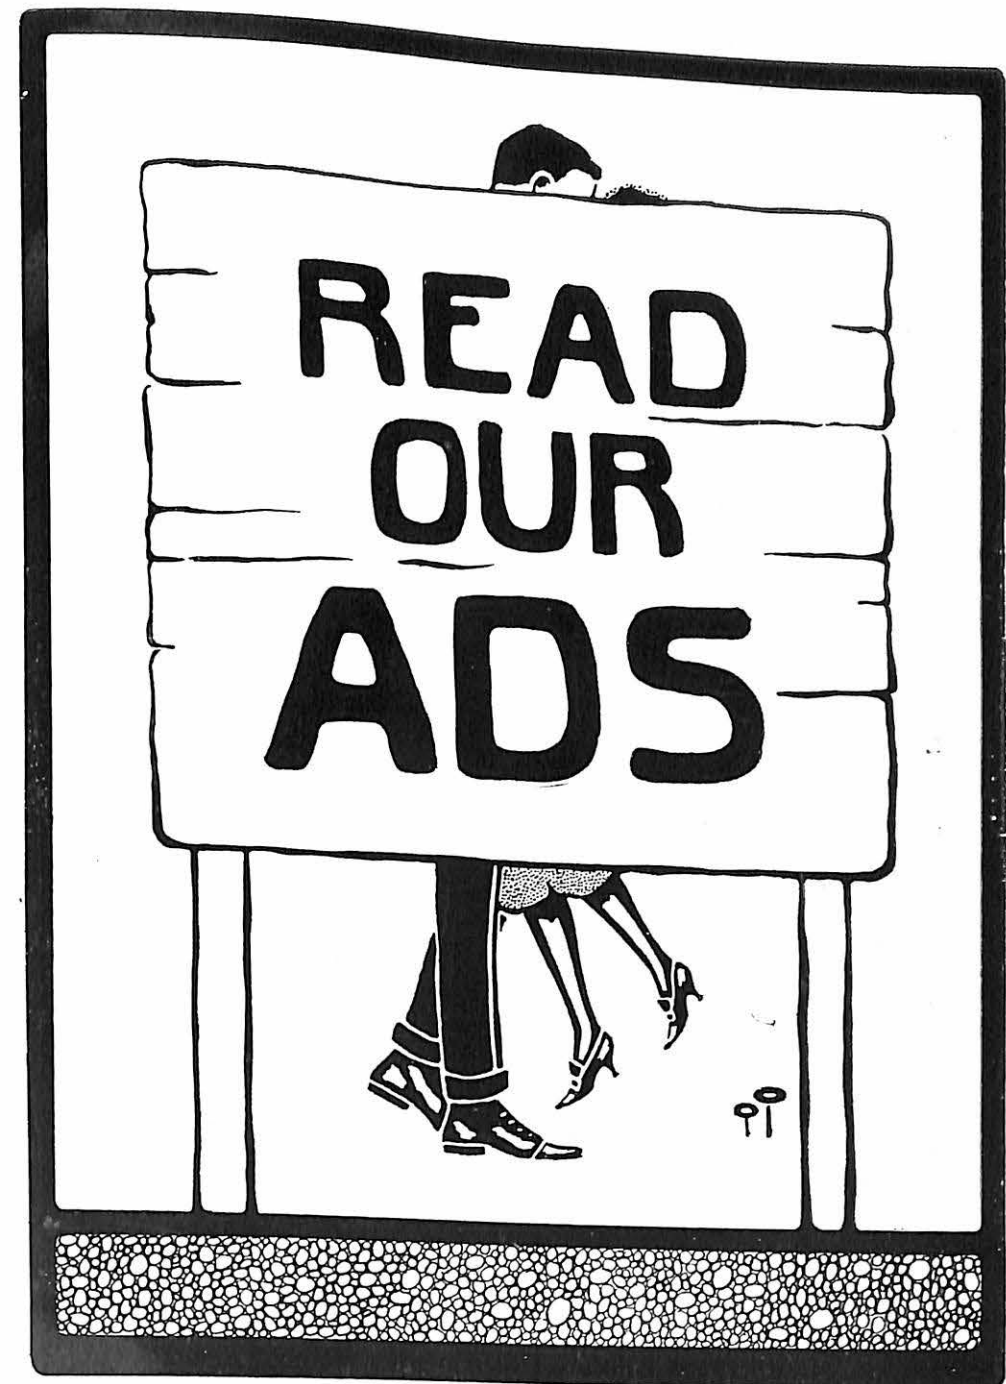

"South Bend," Bob said meekly.

"Wrong again! Indianapolis was the answer. What made you change?" she asked angrily.

Bob grumbled something, glancing at Pat.

"What is the big idea?" he sputtered to Pat after class. "Twice you failed me."

"Say, Bob, I forgot to tell you before class. I've got a terrible cold, and I couldn't control myself in the classroom."

Publicity and Quality Printing

Go Hand in Hand

IT IS seldom thought of—this publicity business—other than the fact that it gets the crowd to the ball game, the college play, the recital, or any other college activity which may be staged.

But, did you know, or stop to think, that the local paper—this paper in this instance—necessarily bears the expense of an exceedingly large volume of free publicity?

And, for that reason—if for no other, and there are others—don't you think this plant should by all means be given the commercial work of each of these entertainments, such as programs, window cards, tickets, etc.?
