FOREWORD

THAT memories of pleasant and busy Missouri Valley Days may be more fully preserved, and that their recall may be more rich and vivid, we build this book hoping to pay silent tribute to the many tasks accomplished, the worthy ambitions crystallized, and true friendships formed.

DEDICATION

TO ONE who has introduced new educational policies into the curriculum of Missouri Valley College, who has labored incessantly for the welfare of the college and its students, and who is respected and loved by all who know him, we respectfully dedicate this, the 1933 Sabidura to—
DEAN C. L. MILLER

IN searching for a theme for
The 1933 Sabiduria that would be closely related to the College and appreciated by the Student Body, we were faced with an immense problem. We solved this problem by picturing throughout this book photographs and drawings of campus scenes that are dear to every Viking. In consequence thereof, we christen this book---
The Campus Beautiful Sabiduria of 1933.

THIS IS MY TASK

To live today to the full. To try to make my highest moment permanent. To give everyone whose burden is greater than my own, a lift. To make every moment count; to try to be somebody with all my might.

To be generous, tolerant, considerate, kind, forbearing, magnanimous.

To keep my mind open to truth, responsive to the world's best thought, and to be true to the best I know.

To look forward, not backward; to look up, not down; to make the most of my opportunities and never whine at the lack of them.

To be a man before I am a lawyer, a doctor, or a merchant; and whatever my occupation or profession, to accomplish something infinitely bigger and of greater service to the world than collecting dollars.

To realize that "Man is the master of thought, the moulder of character, the maker and shaper of conditions, environment and destiny," and to use my power intelligently.

To face life with a smile; to keep a stiff upper lip no matter how gloomy or depressing conditions may be; to have confidence in my power to conquer every difficulty and reach the goal of my ambition.

To make my life yield its highest possible service by being faithful to the duties of each day; trying to do everything I attempt to a complete finish; by being scrupulously honest in every transaction; by always ringing true to my friendships; by holding a helpful, accommodating attitude toward those about me; by fulfilling to the best of my ability the obligation to be noble, to be loyal to my highest ideals.

This is the task that comes to me every morning—to be true throughout the day to my higher self. Its fulfillment demands all the courage, all the strength, all the manhood or womanhood, all the divinity, that is in me.

This is my task, and today's the day.

OUR ALMA MATER

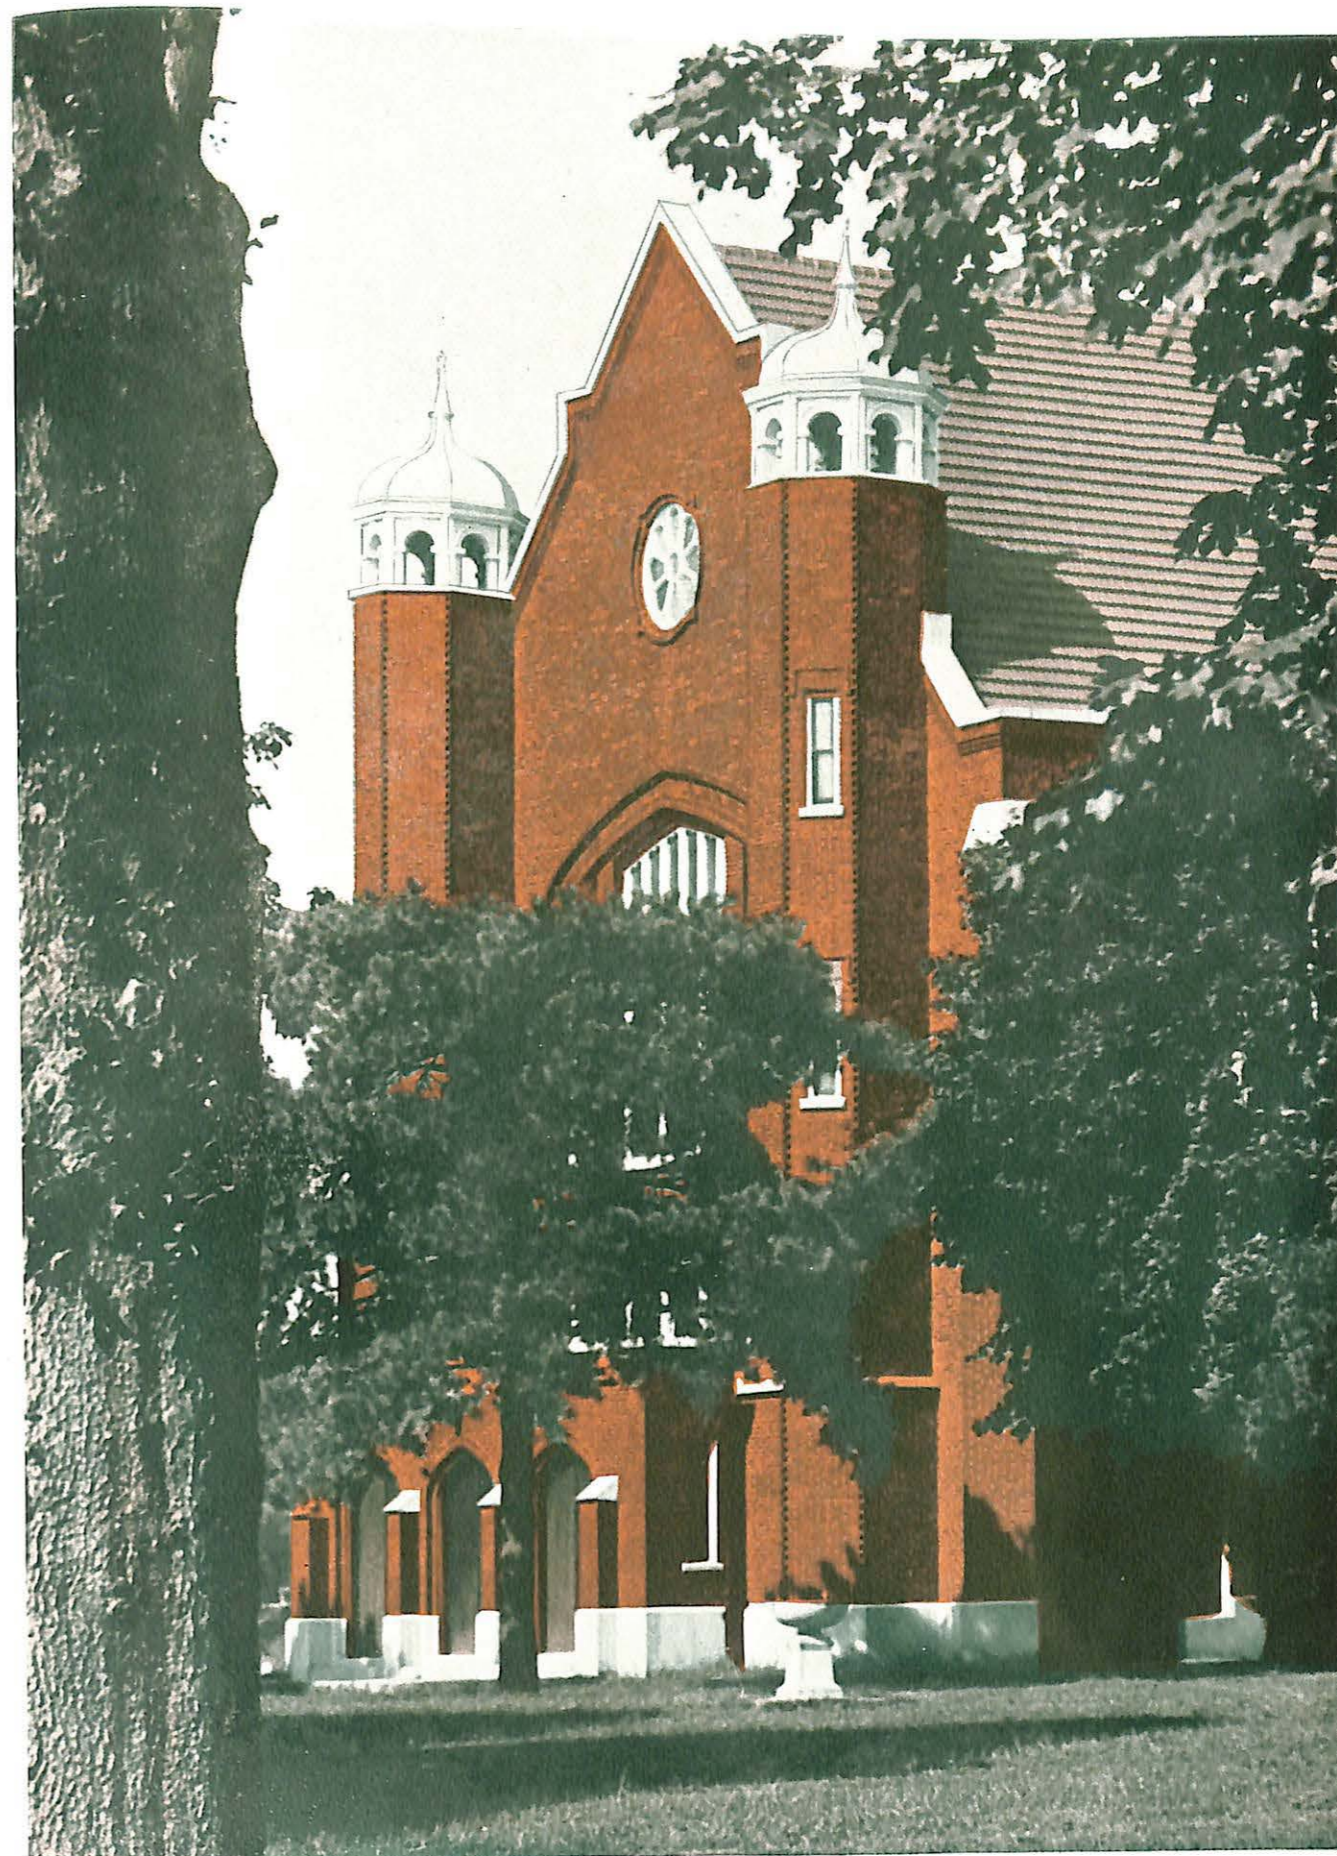

*All hail to thee, oh, noble Alma Mater;
All hail to thee, with grateful hearts we sing.
Our hopes and prayers for thee are full of promise,
Our homage true to thee we bring.
Missouri Valley, oh, Missouri Valley,
Within thy gracious walls we've lingered long,
Again we lift our voices with thy praises,
And pledge our loyal love in song.*

MAIN BUILDING

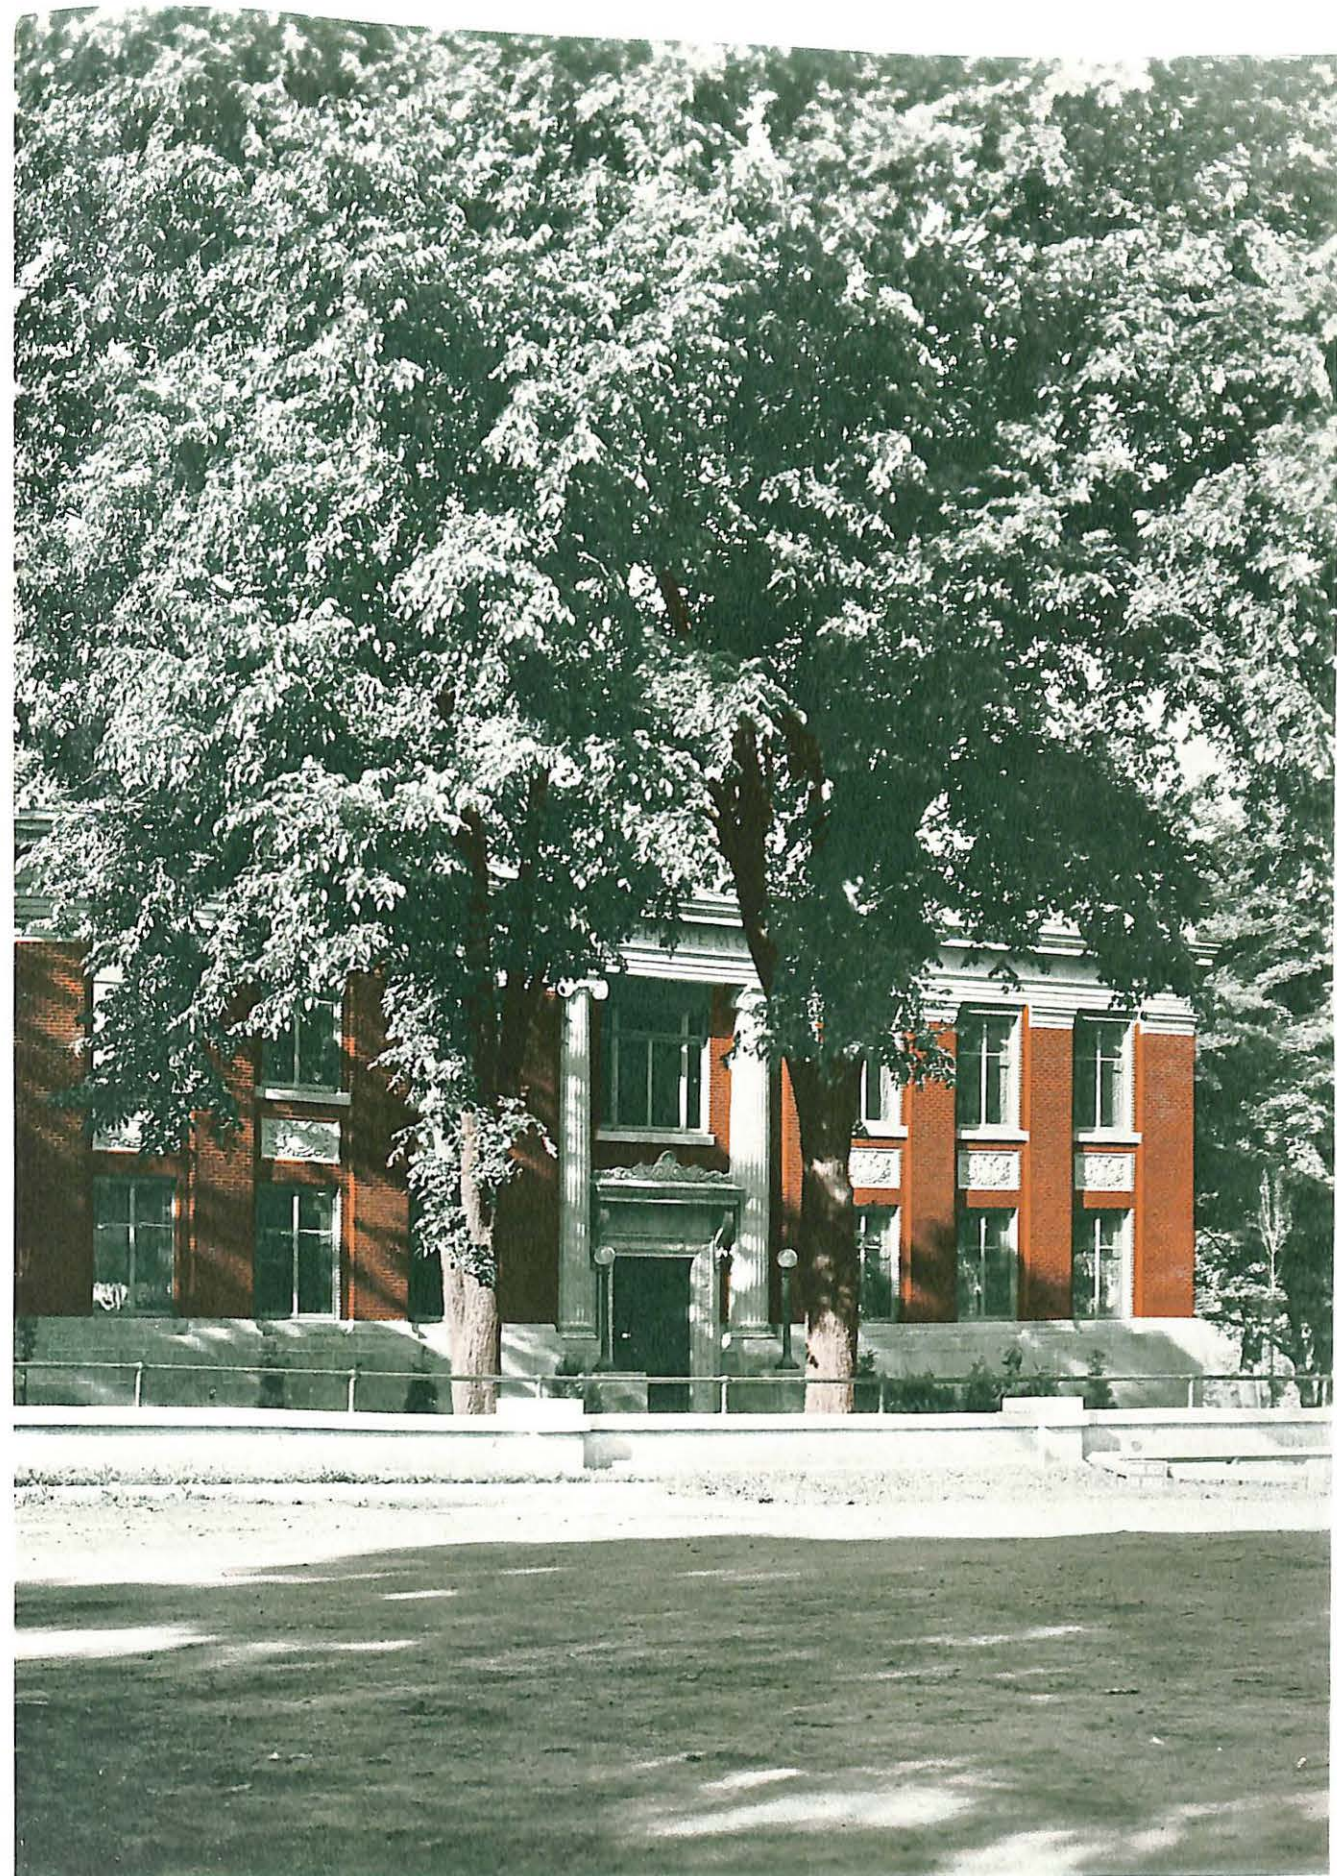

*Each year from out thy wide and pleasant portals,
Thy sons and daughters issue for the fight;
They march beneath thy gold and royal purple,
And bravely battle for the right.
Missouri Valley, oh, Missouri Valley,
Thy gathering host the coming year shall see.
Beneath thy standard countless sons shall rally,
Theirs not to die, but live for thee.*

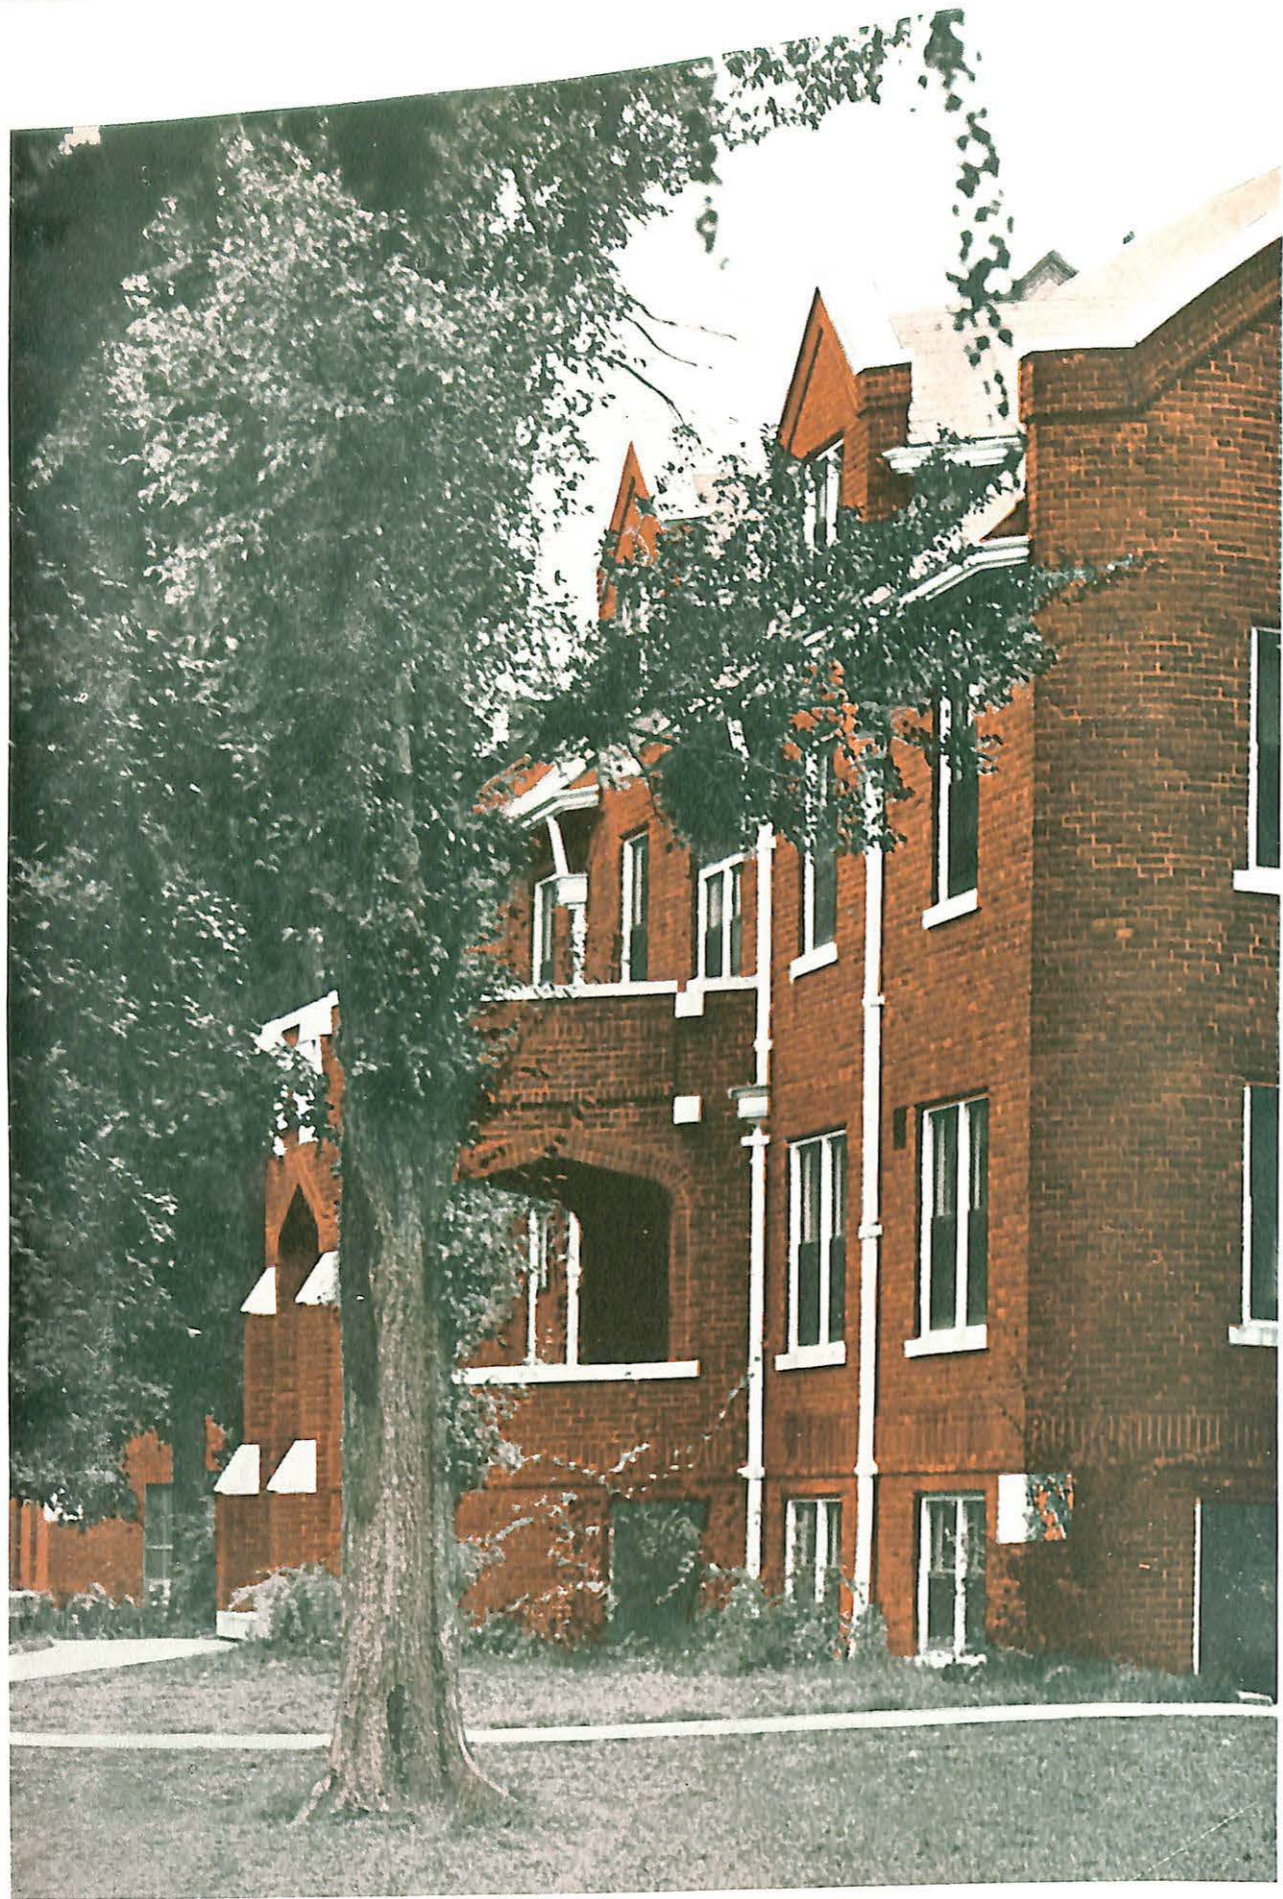

STEWART CHAPEL

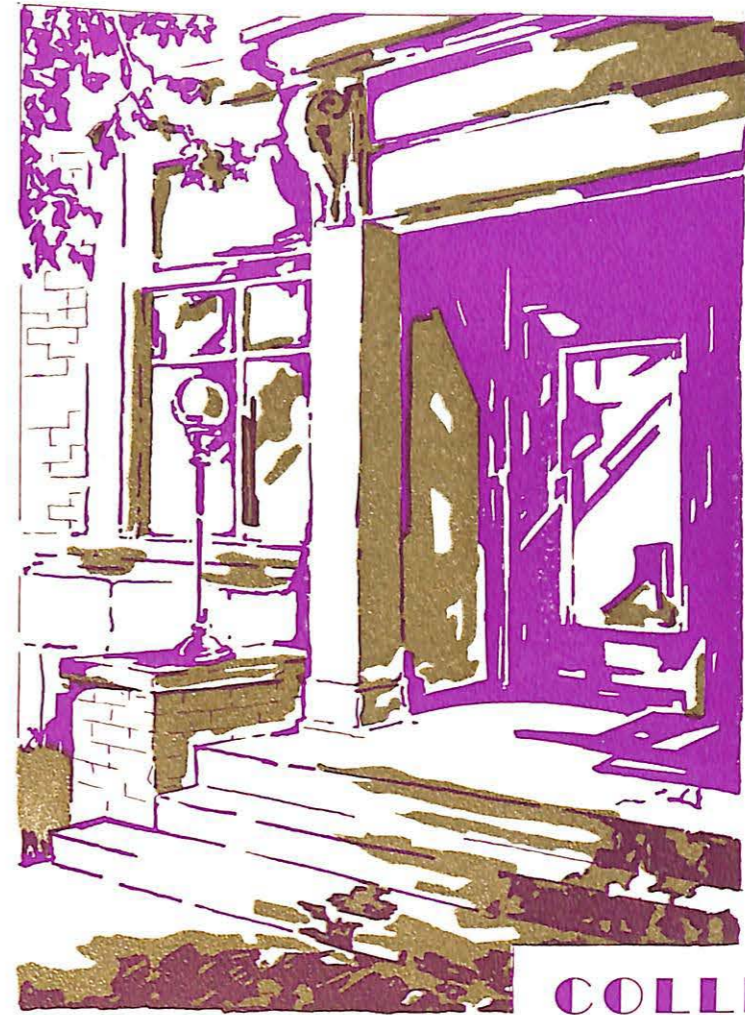

*Missouri Valley, thou our loving mother,
Art young and strong and for the right art
bold.
Then falter not 'gainst foes of Wrong and Darkness,
Thy shield the God of Truth shall hold.
Missouri Valley, oh, Missouri Valley,
Life calls thy children from thy halls away,
But loving eyes shall watch thy upward striving,
May God protect thee on thy way.*

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

FOR serious work and solid achievement, in the classroom and on the campus, I am inclined to think we shall describe this school year as one of the best. Difficulties have made us the more earnest. To a group of friends, recently, Elihu Root, now at the age of 87, said that, as he reviewed his life, he saw his best achievements as gained only through hardship. This is the story of most lives that have attained success.

To the class of 1933, and to all our students who leave college halls to enter active life, I wish the joy of real conquest and service. Live nobly, live unselfishly. In the words of George Fox: "Walk joyfully over the earth, answering that of God in every man."

A MESSAGE FROM THE STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT

I AM glad to report that during the past year we have been able to keep our financial system upon a sound basis. The progress made in legislative matters and the unifying spirit back of all the Student Senate's undertakings can be attributed only to the assistance and the splendid co-operation received from the students, faculty and administration. I wish to thank the student body for the confidence placed in me and for the splendid co-operation given me during my administration.

Sincerely,
RAYMOND H. LONG.

THE STUDENT SENATE

THE Student Senate, under the leadership of President Raymond Long, elected as its officers: J. Carson Dowell, Vice-President; Mary C. Ryan, Secretary; and John Billings, Treasurer. During the past year, the Senate aided in paying honor to the Harvest Queen, banqueted the members of the 1932 M. C. A. U. Champion Football Team, and on April 1, 1933, presented a Kollege Sity Dance in accordance with a time-honored Valley custom. On April 24, the Student Senate presented to the Student Body a beautiful flag representing the Spirit of Valley.

The Senate wishes to express its appreciation to the students, faculty, and administration for their co-operation in making the past year a banner one for Student Government at Valley.

HONOR PLAQUE

EACH year there are chosen from the Senior Class a man and a woman student to receive the honor of having their names placed on the Honor Plaque hanging in Murrell Memorial Library. The recipients of the honor are picked by the Faculty from a list of three young men and three young women, chosen by the Student Senate on the basis of character, loyalty and service.

Those who have received the award the last four years are proving themselves worthy of the honor by doing outstanding things in their respective fields since their graduation.

THE CLASS OF 1933

IN the summer of 1929, the college ordered a fresh shipment of stock in the form of students. When the stocks were registered, the administration felt that the new order was a bad addition to the portfolio.

The crash came in October of 1929 but the Class D stock rode the crest of the drop unblemished.

Looking at the portfolio in 1933, one sees in this '29 addition two student presidents, two May Queens, two Chi Alpha presidents, two basket ball captains, two Y. W. C. A. presidents, one man who served as class president three out of four years, a Delta editor, a W. S. G. A. president, a cheer leader, a football captain, a "V" Club president, a Pi Gamma Mu president, a Y. M. C. A. president, eight football lettermen, three basket ball lettermen, two track lettermen, nine Pi Gamma Mu members and by an especially good trade, four three-year students.

A forced sale on May 30 will remove this stock acquisition from Missouri Valley's portfolio.

THE CLASS OF 1934

ON SEPTEMBER 10, 1930, the stork left 127 green-haired, pallid pink-skinned freshmen on Missouri Valley's campus. They selected for their loving god father, Wylie Steen. During this first year of infancy, they chose for their leader, Johnny Stevenson. The success of his leadership can be seen when they chose on their first anniversary, Willis McDowell to continue the good work of his predecessor. They were now beginning to see light and it was obvious that some of the infants would grow up to be outstanding Vikings.

On the eve of their second anniversary, they found themselves without a leader, and this time they elected Robert Sutton. No longer were they whining children, but now they had taken on an air of blossoming girls and boys, who have only one more year to spend at the place of their birth.

Such celebrities as a football captain, a basket ball captain, debaters, senate members, dramatists, and journalists, all found themselves as members of the class of '34, and it is needless to say that they will be as successful their last year in college as they were their first three.

THE CLASS OF 1935

IN SEPTEMBER, 1932, several of the then present Viking group stood waiting to get a glimpse of the new members which were to be added—the tenderfeet which would mature into the seasoned Vikings of '35.

As the ship dropped anchor a little Rea of sunshine popped out, and he provided the guiding light for the others and for him to Reid by throughout the year. A Buck plunged overboard, led by a renowned Harper who Harold the news of their arrival.

The newcomers had been told of the need for Nichols, and now wherever we find Nichols there is a desire for Moore.

They survived the arrival and found they had one who Digges for a living, one Tobin, one who could Kidwell, one with her tooth Aikin, one Freeman, and out of the whole group—one Goodwin!!

This year, pushed by a pleasant Winn, and led by a Campbell Serner than Steele, and with hearts as gay as a Rose and not as heavy as Rox, they are gliding into the Sea of Success.

THE CLASS OF 1937

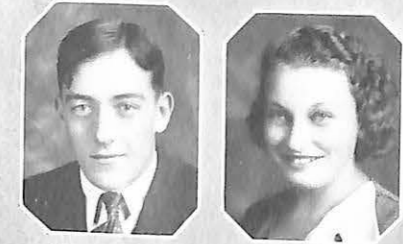

ON September 12, the 1932 Freshman Ship manned with eighty-four true Vikings, began its four-year cruise of College Life. It started at sunrise, not to return until the harbor could be safely reached in the sinking rays of the sun.

The sailing during the first week was rather rough, since it was a new ship, new crew and new waters, but in spite of the fact that some of the passengers embarked in the wrong cabins a few times, it was a delightful beginning. Although some of the crew members were called green, they were treated considerately by everyone. A few of the older leaders were even nice enough to laugh with them (never at them). For the enjoyment of these older members, many of the crew were called upon to display their dramatic ability in an assembly program presented the first week of the journey. Class officers were elected the second week, after which the sailing was much smoother.

As in all campus activities, the ship was well represented on the athletic field. Four members participated in football, three in basket ball, and five in track.

THE FORUM

THE 1933 debate season for the Missouri Valley College Forum was one in which new debate forms were tried, meeting with the approval of Forum members and students alike. In decision contests, the Forum broke even, winning four and losing four.

Professor Carle B. Spotts, in his fifth year as debate coach, introduced the new debate styles to his men. The first was the Congressional, in which students of the participating schools were scrambled on the two sides. Each was allowed several minutes in constructive speaking, questioning, or cross-questioning. The second was a modification of this, in which the regular constructive speeches went off as usual, with each followed by a five-minute period during which the speaker defended his statements against an attack by his opponents. Each side closed with a single rebuttal.

Robert Sutton, ranking debater in point of experience, won first place this year in the Missouri Intercollegiate Peace Oratorical Contest with an oration entitled, "Education for World Citizenship".

The Season in Summary:

"Resolved: That the United States should agree to the cancellation of the inter-allied war debts."

THE DRAMATIC ARTS CLUB

THE Dramatic Arts Club of Missouri Valley College aims to provide a means of expression for those who are interested in dramatic work or any of its various branches such as costuming, makeup and stage setting. The organization holds regular bi-monthly meetings in which the members study dramatic appreciation, play reviews, puppetry and other allied subjects.

During the school year, the Dramatic Arts Club presents two major plays and a number of one-act plays. It is the privilege of the entire student body to try out for the major plays.

An outdoor stage is constructed for the May Fete play, at which time it is becoming traditional for a Shakespearean play to be given. "Much Ado About Nothing" was presented for the 1933 May Fete, and "The School for Scandal" was the other major production of the year.

THE VESPER CHOIR

THIS year something new and different was tried in the way of a large musical organization, and the trial proved to be a huge success. Due to the economic situation of the country and the probability of the failure of either the Men's or Women's Glee Club in scheduling a tour, Dean Fichthorn organized a Vesper Choir, composed of the original members of both of the glee clubs in addition to others. One-half hour credit was given to those who composed the membership, and meetings were held weekly with an attendance report being taken.

Several programs were given at the Chapel in connection with the Sunday Vesper Services. The climax was reached when the group appeared in concert at the Methodist Church on Palm Sunday when union services of all the churches in Marshall were held. Dean Fichthorn is deserving of much of the credit for the success of the group.

YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

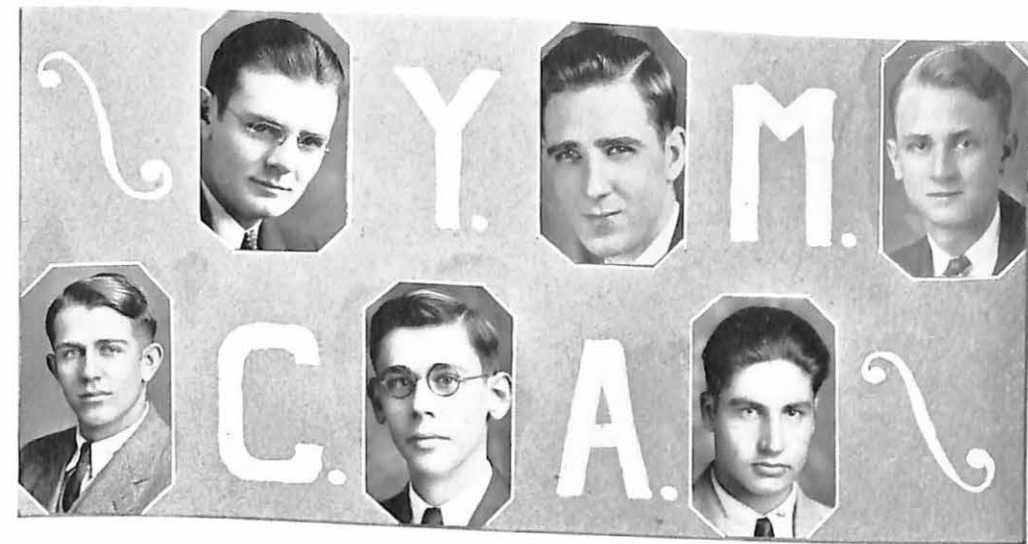

THIS year the work of the Young Women's Christian Association has been varied and deserving of many compliments. Under the capable and efficient leadership of Miss Mary C. Ryan, the organization has held weekly meetings and discussions of various problems confronting the modern girl were elaborated upon at length. Such questions as—what should my attitude be toward the outside world?—how shall I look upon my family and my fellow-men?—what can I do to more fully develop my personality? These and other vital questions were all answered. The discussions were led by competent leaders.

The Y. W. C. A. in partnership with the Y. M. C. A. has sponsored several all-school parties. They have taken an active part in the promotion of the Sunday Vesper Services, and collectively sponsored a tri-college conference, dealing with the question of Inter-racial Relations. Delegates from Central College and Central Missouri State Teachers' College were present for this open forum.

All in all, the Y. W. C. A. has had a very successful year and with the passing of time it is bound to become one of the most active organizations on the campus.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

THE Young Men's Christian Association has endeavored this year to fulfill its purpose on the Missouri Valley College Campus: that of giving the principles of religion a practical application to student life, through the encouragement and practice of Christian devotion and leadership.

Regular weekly meetings were held during the first semester with lectures and discussions dealing with the Christian aspect of political, social and economic questions of real interest to college men. The second semester meetings were used in discussing the paramount teachings to be found in the life of Christ.

An innovation in the religious life of M. V. C. was this year effected by the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. organizations combined. Each Sunday evening vesper services were held in Young Hall. Competent leaders were selected alternately from the two organizations. The response to these services from the students by their attendance and interest indicated hearty approval. The Y. M. C. A. earnestly hopes that these vesper services will be faithfully continued through the years and will become an integral part of each student's religious life.

PI GAMMA MU

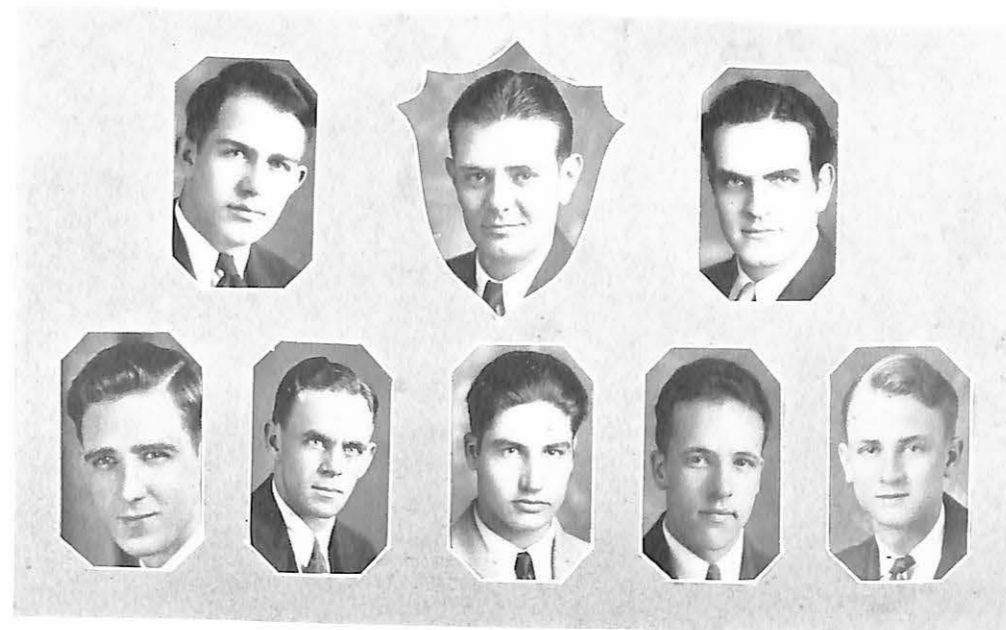

THE Missouri Zeta chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, national honorary social science society, was established at Missouri Valley College in April, 1931. This local chapter now has fifty-two members enrolled from the alumni, faculty and members of the junior and senior classes of the college who have met its standards of high scholastic achievement in the field of social science.

Pi Gamma Mu was first organized in 1924 at Southwestern College, Winfield, Kansas, by Dr. Leroy Allen, then Dean of that institution. The organization now has over one hundred twenty-five chapters in many of the leading educational institutions of the nation.

The primary interest of Pi Gamma Mu is the promotion of a scientific attitude toward social problems on the part of both graduate and undergraduate students. Contemporary social, economic and political topics receive attention at each regular monthly meeting.

The year has been marked with a varied program to provide interest, inspiration, and recreation. There have been steak fries, morning prayer groups, and talks by Dr. Mack, Prof. Hale, Prof. Ferguson and Dr. Malcolm, as well as personal conferences with seminary leaders while they were guests on the campus.

THE BAND

THE band has been very active this year in helping keep up the pep of the student body. They were always on hand at athletic contests, wearing their gold and purple uniforms, and it can be truthfully said that their presence aided in sending the Vikings on to victory.

In the autumn of 1930, the Club, upon the advice of the administration and the wishes of the girls themselves, went social.

The first president of the club was Mrs. "Blue Eyes" Belwood Pinkston. Succeeding presidents have been: Mrs. Ruby Asbury Pickering, Mrs. Dot Hyland Schooley, Miss Frances Lou Fletcher, Miss Helen Mahr, Miss Clementine Genz, Miss Mary Catherine Ryan, and the office is now held by Miss Virginia Barlow.

The basic ideals of the club are the fostering of scholarship, loyalty and friendship, so that all members may be a symphony of helpfulness and high purpose.

Miss Madeline Ashton, as sponsor, and Mrs. C. L. Miller, as patroness, have attributed much toward the success of the sorority during this period.

SIGMA NU

SINCE its revival on December 19, 1931, Beta Gamma Chapter of Sigma Nu Fraternity has stepped steadily forward in fraternity rank. Each member of the organization has taken an active part in at least one major activity on the campus, and each has endeavored while doing so to give of his best ability to the promotion of the welfare of the college, and thus bring honor to themselves as well as to the fraternity.

Sigma Nu is the only national, social organization on the campus. Beta Gamma Chapter was first founded at Missouri Valley College in 1891. After a few years existence, national fraternities were banned from the college campus by a ruling of the faculty and administration. Upon the repeal of this rule, the chapter was revived amid pomp and ceremony on December 19, 1931.

A St. Pat's informal, a formal dance in May, oyster suppers, and a steak fry at the "Hub" constituted the main social events of the year.

THE WOMEN'S STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

THE Women's Student Government Association was organized in September, 1930, under the leadership of Miss Edna Cox. Due to the able guidance of Dean Helen B. May this organization has become one of the most efficient on the campus. Miss Eileen Robertson succeeded Miss Cox as president in 1931.

Their purpose is to promote the spirit of unity among the women on the campus, to provide a medium of creative expression for them, and to give opportunity to assume the responsibilities and to enjoy the privileges of a self-government association.

All women students residing in the dormitories compose the membership. The nucleus of this group centers in the W. S. G. A. Council to which is granted executive and judicial powers.

During this year under the leadership of Miss Josephine Evans, the W. S. G. A. has sponsored a Book Club, whose program included reviews of books representing various types of modern literature; several social teas in the dormitories; and inter-dormitory frolics.

FOOTBALL

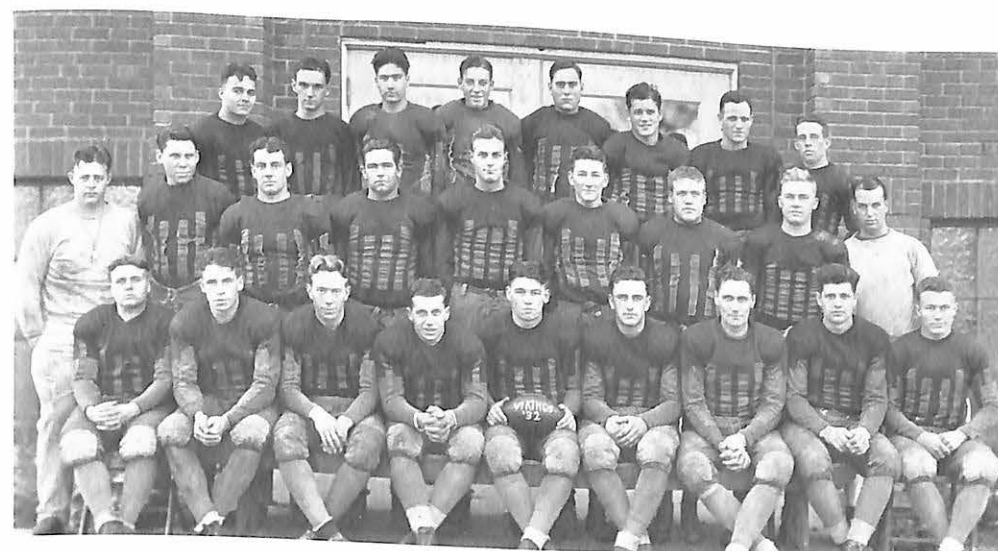

COACH E. M. HAGGARD

TWO years after graduation from Missouri Valley, "Mike" Haggard returned to his Alma Mater to take up the reins of Coach Henri R. Godfriaux, who was granted a leave of absence for one year.

"Mike," himself, was a player of great ability during his college days, and won places on several all-star selections, as well as being one of the greatest football players Missouri Valley has ever produced.

He continued the system of play used by Coach Godfriaux with some valuable additions, and was successful in coaching a team that won the 1933 M. C. A. U. championship. Too much credit cannot be given him. Sportsmanship and wholesomeness in athletics are characteristic of his belief, and a victory never comes with the sacrificing of either of these two things.

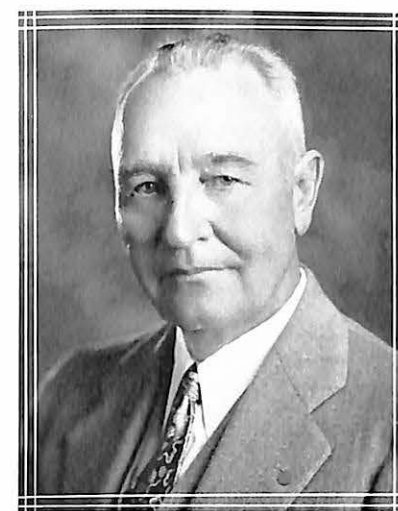

Special credit is also due Fred Twilling, who assisted Coach Haggard in turning out a championship team, and Dr. Nuckles, who helped the Vikings recover from injuries and who gave first-aid treatment when necessary.

THE VIKING SQUAD

ALTHOUGH the squad was smaller this year than usual, they possessed the same fight and strength that is characteristic of other Viking teams. Under the direction of Coach Haggard, this group won for Missouri Valley the M. C. A. U. championship, winning every conference game. The faithfulness of those who did not get to play in many games will undoubtedly be rewarded next year.

The football section of the Sabiduria would not be complete without mention of Professor Ferguson, otherwise known as "Redblood." Other than the coach probably no other man knows the players so well. He follows them up and down the field during their practices, and never a game goes by but what we listen with interest to his predictions.

THE LETTERMEN

RUMANS' ability as a tackle can be proved by the fact that he was chosen as one of the All-Star tackles on the M. C. A. U. Team.

HAMMERS never failed to gain ground when he was given the ball. His line plunges and fake kicks were characteristic of his play.

NICHOLS—the steadiness and determination of this end to always block out his man aided greatly in the success of the team.

RUNKLE—the stalwartness and power of this guard proved an asset to the team at all times.

DOUGHTY's kicks and passes never failed to gain yardage. His perseverance and interest gave the squad an added bond.

YATES won his first letter this year. His ability and steadfastness should prove a valuable asset in his next two years of play.

MITCHELL—Although he was out part of the season due to injuries, his shiftiness and ball carrying ability won for him the applause of the spectators.

MCDANIELS showed good judgment in his selection of plays while at quarterback. He is dependable and shifty and we should see much of him next year.

THE LETTERMEN

HINTON captained the 1932 Team. His ability as a center, his fight and enthusiasm, all aided in getting the coveted title.

CAMERON—As an end he showed remarkable ability—removing interference, catching passes, and breaking up the opponent's plays.

SEBASTIAN's calmness and coolness no doubt accounted for some of the successes of the team. He was a dependable safety and his leadership will be missed next year.

SMITH—The power behind this guard was present in all the games. He possessed marked ability in charging and opening up holes for Valley ball luggers.

TAYLOR has been elected captain of the 1933 Team. His long runs, his pass catching ability, and his alertness of mind and actions, all warrant him this honor.

McCOLLUM earned his second letter this year by proving himself to be an all-around good end, pass catcher, blocker and breaker up of plays.

BROWN—The sincerity and interest that this boy takes in football is bound to mature at more than face value. He is fast and steady and always on the job.

RITTERBUSCH—An all-conference choice for tackle. He was aggressive and powerful and never failed to get his man.

FOOTBALL REVIEW

(Compiled from the Delta)

IN WINNING the M. C. A. U. football championship this year, it gives Missouri Valley a record of four championships in thirteen years, or four championships since the time Henri R. Godfriaux came to Missouri Valley in 1920.

In defeating Central, Thanksgiving Day, 12-0, at Fayette, Valley won her third championship in six years. Due credit must be given Coach "Mike" Haggard, who, in his first year of college coaching, produced a team that marched through its conference schedule undefeated and lost only one game all season.

In addition to winning the M. C. A. U. championship, the Vikings placed four men on the all-conference team. These teams were picked by the Associated Press from nominations received from the seven coaches of the teams in the circuit.

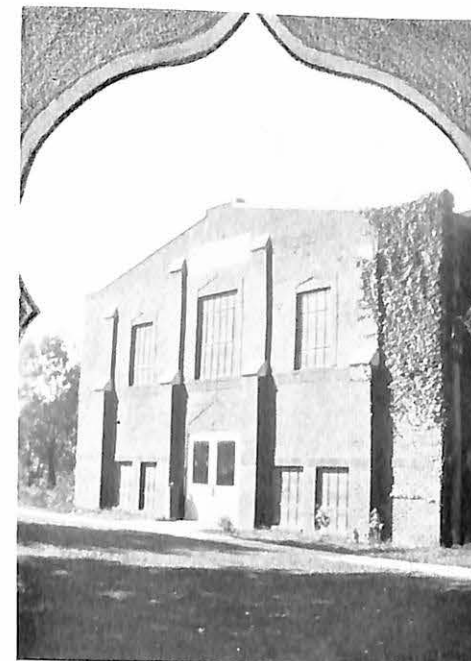

At the center position is Hubert Hinton, who captained the Vikings through a most successful season. Both tackle positions went to the Vikings as Rumans and Ritterbusch were named the outstanding tackles in the conference. The other first-team position went to "Crabby" Taylor, the speedy halfback, who was almost an unanimous choice.

Sebastian at quarterback, Smith at guard, and Cameron at end, barely missed making the first team and so had to be content with positions on the second team.

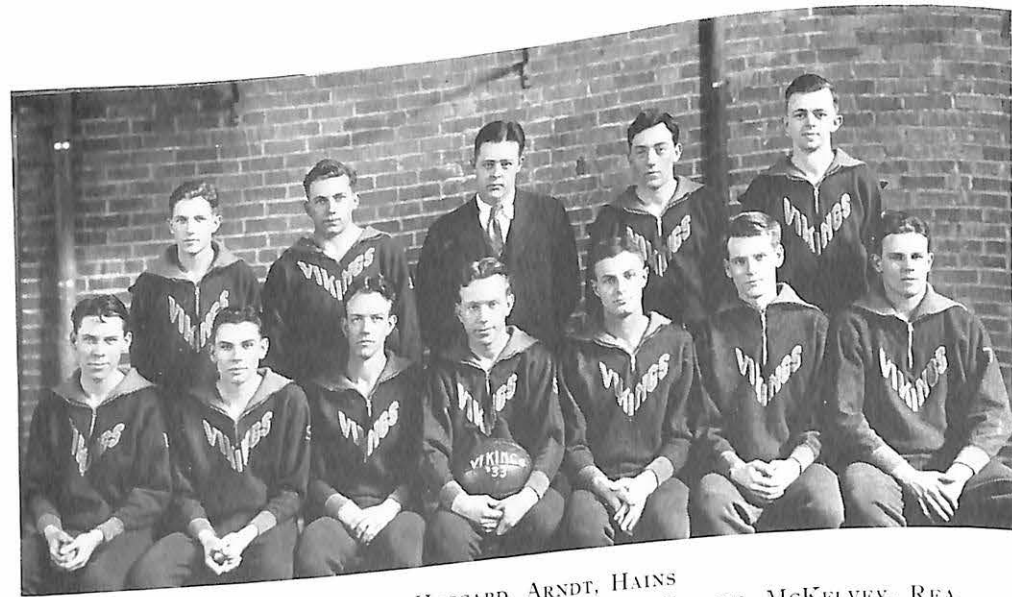

The results of the games played this season are given below:

	Opponent's Score	Vikings' Score
Sept. 30—Kemper at Boonville.....	0	12
Oct. 7—Rockhurst at Kansas City.....	20	13
Oct. 14—Tarkio at Marshall.....	0	14

THE BASKETBALL SQUAD

DESPITE the many defeats suffered by the Viking Basketball Squad, the season's record was not half so bad when the results were considered more closely. In many of the games Valley lost by only a few points, seeming to lack that final punch that brings victory.

The boys were consistent throughout the season, giving of their best at all times, and although defeat loomed in their face most of the time they never gave up hope.

Coach Haggard initiated a new system of play his first year at Valley, consisting of a fast-breaking offense. No doubt if this system is continued next year, it should develop into something that is bound to mature at more than face value.

EDDIE SEBASTIAN—Eddie played his fourth and last year for Valley this season, climaxing it all by being captain of the 1933 Cage Team. He was a guard of remarkable ability, and accounted for many of the season's points.

LETTERMEN 1933

RAYMOND LONG—"Doc" was captain of the 1932 Team. He is a four letter man, and his play this year was consistent and steady. Confidence in his play was a valuable asset to the team.

PETE REA—There were not many that could out-jump Pete. His floor-playing ability, passing and defense-playing, all gave added strength to the varsity five.

ORVILLE MCCOLLUM—"Mac" won his first letter in basket ball this season. His manner in handling the ball was easy and graceful, and he accounted for his part of the points.

CHARLES SPARKS—Charlie, captain-elect for the 1934 season, is without doubt the fastest man on the floor. He has a good eye for the basket and it takes someone with more than mere size to get around him when he is put on your trail. He is efficient and consistent and his earnestness will undoubtedly win for him the confidence of his team.

LETTERMEN 1933

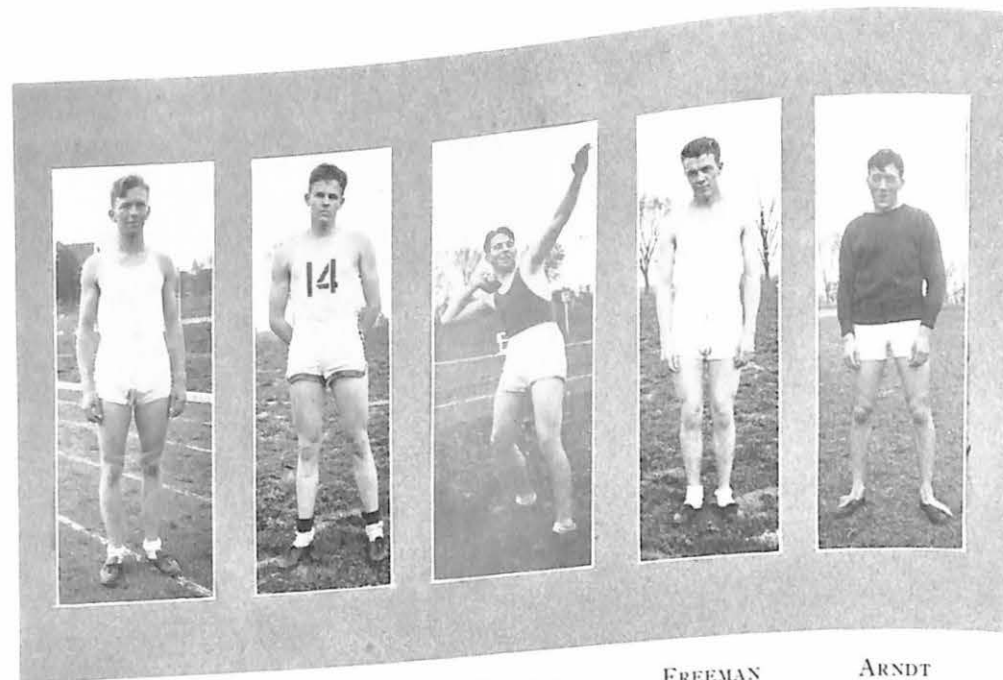

JUSTIN MCKELVEY—Mac won his first letter this season when he proved himself to be a guard of the highest calibre. He was exceptional on defense play, never failing to get his man.

EUGENE REIDENBACH—Another guard of outstanding ability. He was fast on the floor, an accurate passer and a scorer of no little ability.

PETE REA—Has proven himself to be a pole vaulter and high jumper of the finest calibre, accounting for many of the points in the various meets.

BASH NICHOLS—The weight man of the team, throwing the discus 115 feet and putting the shot $37\frac{1}{2}$ feet. Bash is a two-year man.

RICHARD FREEMAN—Was the distance runner of the team, running both the 880-yard dash and the one mile run. He was a consistent runner throughout the season.

COACH HAGGARD—Was responsible for a good deal of the success that the track team experienced this year.

HUBERT HINTON—Did his part in throwing the weights, and keeping up the spirit of the entire team.

MCCLUNEY—Was another weight man, and gave of his best all season.

MCCOLLUM—Tried his luck at hurdling and should develop into a good man in time.

JUSTIN MCKELVEY—Was also a hurdler and high jumper. He has the talent and should make a good man.

The climax of the track season was reached when Missouri Valley was host to the other members of the Missouri College Union track teams on May 12 and 13. Some spectacular races and field events were witnessed by the spectators and all in all it was two grand days.

THE TENNIS TEAM

AT THE time this book goes to press, no tennis matches have been held. However it is obvious that Missouri Valley will hold its own up against any opponent with three veterans of the court in the field, and a maximum amount of new material available.

Raymond Long is a four-year man and plays a steady net game. This year makes Charles Simpson's second and his accurate service is enough to give any opponent trouble. Louis Comaschi is a three-year man and plays a hard thinking game. His service is unusual and is worth watching.

MISS MARJORIE ROBERTSON
Director Women's Physical Education Department

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS

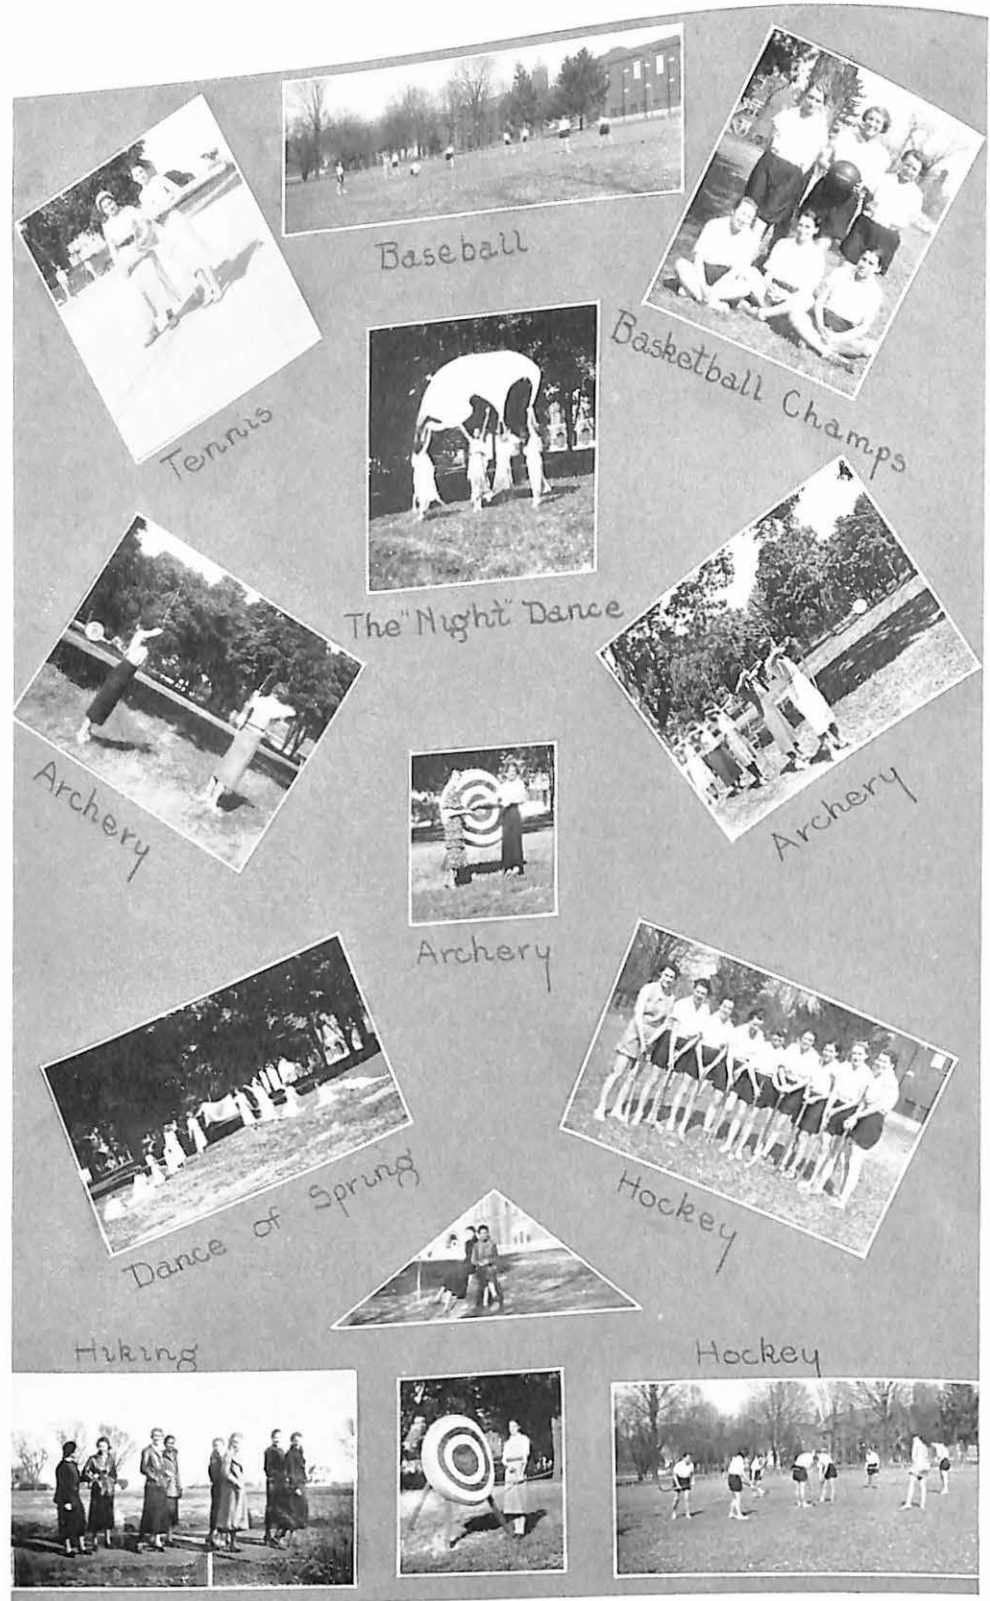

ONE of the most highly commendable departments of Missouri Valley College is the department of women's athletics.

Under the capable and efficient direction of Miss Marjorie Robertson, the department has soared to peaks of success and interest with the offering of regular physical education work, basketball, indoor baseball, hockey, volley ball, tennis, track, and archery.

Special classes in tumbling, mat work, apparatus, folk, tap, and ballet dancing also played a large part in the development of the department.

Exhibitions of the tumbling team were staged between halves of several of the basketball games. Basketball games between the different classes tended to retain interest and the desire of each class to win the championship; an archery tournament, held in the early fall, resulted in the champion being chosen; dancing acts at the May Fete, and on special occasions—all resulted in the terming of this year for the women's athletic department an immense success.

Credit and honors go to all who took part and to their director. May next year even hold more success for them.

When his athletic togs he is diking,
Shows grit.

As he goes down the gridiron a-hiking
Or the line he is tearing or striking
Or a broken field smashing and spiking,
He resembles the old vying Viking
Every whit.

The V stands for Viking and Valley,
The old Norse king in his galley,
Whose daring would ne'er let him dally,
With pleasure.

This new Viking must be the old's ally,
Believe in a ninth-inning rally,
Take lead and be ready to sally
Forth home for the game-winning tally—
Joy's measure.

O Valley and Viking and Vim;
Verities—when my faith is dim—
Victory—when the fight grows grim—
For these things I pray.

Veracity in speech and in song,
Violation when desire rules strong—
Veneration for Prexy who long
Has fought for V's right against wrong
Give me this day.

This poem was written by Professor Wm. I. Ferguson on Sunday morning, Oct. 29, 1922, and published in the 1923 Sabiduria. It is with pride that we reprint this after ten years of dormancy. The sentiment voiced is still applicable to today and is characteristic of the loyalty of Professor Ferguson.

FEATURES

QUEENS

VIRGINIA BARLOW

She came to us from picturesque and stately Ozark Mountains,
Where living water gushes forth from many hundred springs;
She brought a gentle dignity, a music of the fountains,
And a thousand quiet graces from hill-birds' wings.

Her freshness was unhurried, her air was half retiring,
Her wonderment delightful to all the college gang.
Luxuriant imaginings, realities inspiring
Gave to all her life activities a penetrating tang.

Beginning work at college with an open mind, expecting,
And a character as steadfast as the stars,
She made her duty, from the start, a womanly directing
Of college life and movements, and eliminating jars.

Very easily and promptly did honors fall upon her.
She was garlanded with visions that reach beyond the marts.
So, Alma Mater now is pleased most happily to honor
Virginia Barlow, Queen of May, and queen of human hearts.

—I. N. E.

MISS VIRGINIA BARLOW

Queen of the May

TO HELEN

Helen, thy beauty is to me
As no one whom I've ever seen;
So straight and tall, you're like a tree
That in the forest rules as queen
O'er boys and girls nineteen.

You are an All-American girl,
With hair so blonde, with features fine,
With poise rare, our jewel, our pearl;
Each act you do, divine—
Our flag to you we unfurl.

Lo! in the throne of honor,
You are lovely as the flowers in spring;
Or snow, which, in winter, doth bring
Such joy to those who view.
Helen, of thee I sing!

HALL OF FAME

THE 1933 Sabiduria takes pleasure in initiating this new feature into its make-up. Only seniors are eligible for this honor, and it is hoped by the present staff that the Hall of Fame will be featured in all future Sabidurias.

When a student enters Missouri Valley as a Freshman, let his aim be to have his name listed here his senior year, as being one of the few to compose the Hall of Fame for the year of his graduation. Hence the Sabiduria will honor those who bring honor to the College, and to themselves.

We nominate for the 1933 Hall of Fame:

MARY C. RYAN—active in social and student activities, promoting Christian ideals on the campus, maintaining a high scholastic standing, and charming all those that she comes in contact with.

J. CARSON DOWELL—student leader and diplomat—tactful, efficient—a friend to everyone, versatile and a witty conversationalist.

JOSEPHINE EVANS—musically inclined, popular in social circles, exhibiting scholarship, vivacious, and sparkling with wit.

HAROLD J. BERNING—possessing journalistic ability, active in student affairs, loyal supporter of student activities, and a giver of advice that is well to follow.

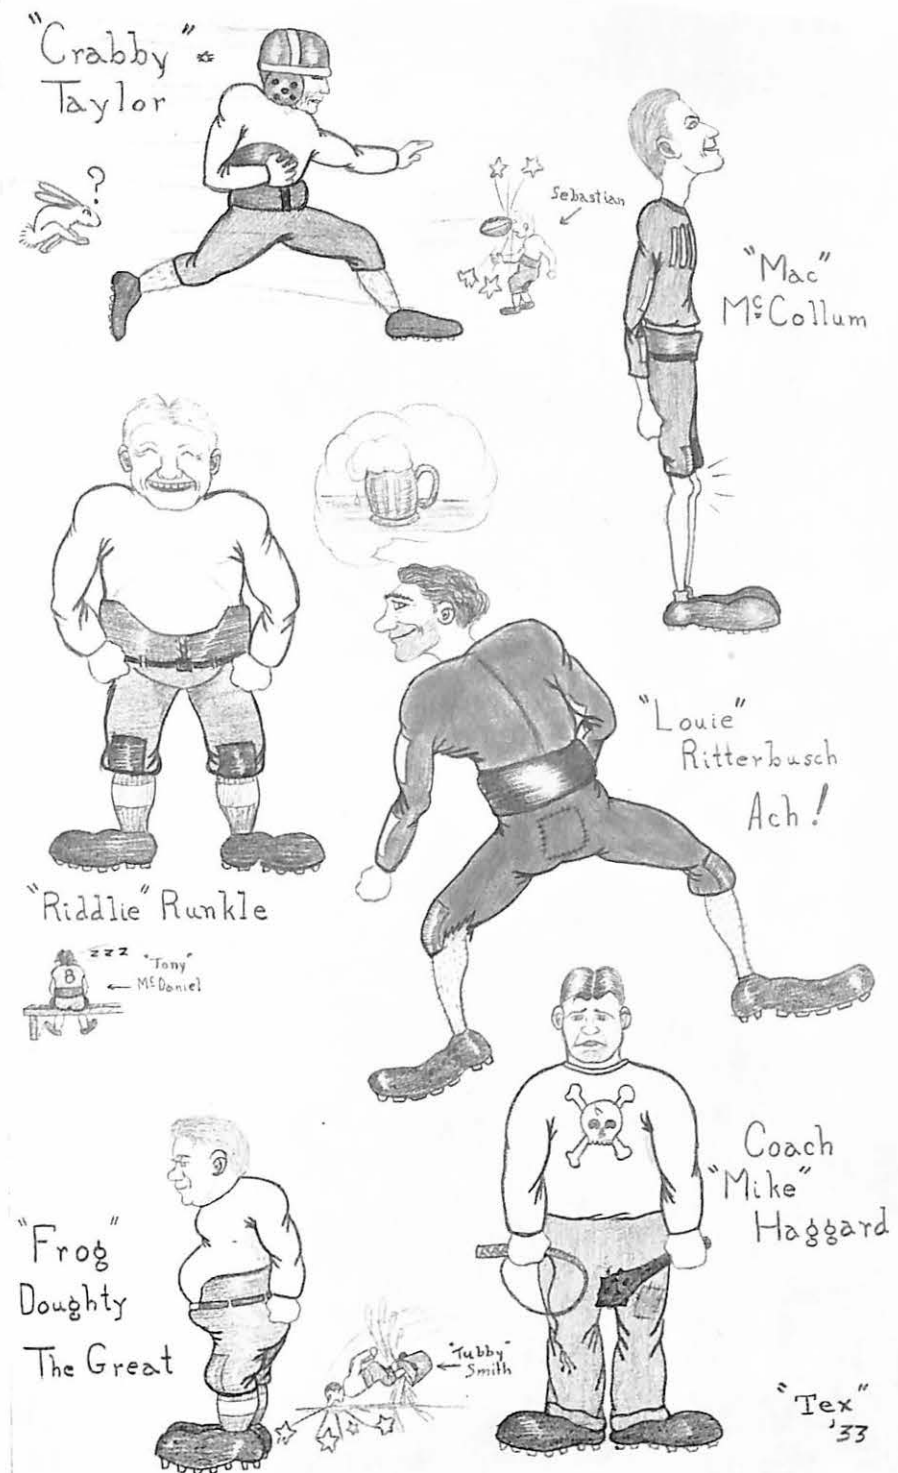

VIRGINIA BARLOW—reserved and quiet—an outstanding campus leader, giving of her time to the promotion of student activities—queenly, delightful and excellent company.

RAYMOND LONG—an all-around good fellow—showing athletic ability, integrity in handling student affairs, and devoting his time in making Missouri Valley a better place.

A LITTLE BIRD TOLD ME

WE HAVE finally gotten one of the pigeons that roost in the tower of the main building to talk. He has been in a vantage point all year and can no doubt give us some choice morsels of dear old Mother Earth—dirt. He wouldn't promise that it would be sifted, just dust, clods, or in big lumps, but dirt, nevertheless. Hope it doesn't rain while he tells this bird's-eye view—mud is so nasty!

"It was really funny to see Sutton change a tire for a vote. If the boys dated as much all the time as they do before the election, the girls would have a grand time at the dear old college. This might be a good talking point for Steen. I didn't know that Charlotte did have such a motherly attitude until she adopted the boys and taught them to sing as a quartette. Charlotte's a senior; guess she'll have to get them a pacifier for next year. Those poor boys will be lost if they ever get up to sing and don't have a piano and Charlotte. My friends, the blackbirds are back with their usual contribution to the welfare of the campus. This reforestation project of Dr. Mack's should meet with their hearty approval. You don't suppose that Dinty was afraid of his crowds and forgot to electioneer, do you—? Duggins said that he thought that his and Rose's waltz in the "Doll House" was to prove that you can dance gracefully with your cheeks about so-o-o-o far apart—apologies to Ed Wynn. I flew through the girls' dorms the other day and I thought that there was a fire. I almost suffocated in the smoke, but no one offered me a drag—stingy. Campaign funds were insufficient for the tube of unguentine, but maybe the new senate can borrow funds to provide for the soothing of the Dean's wounds.

"You'll probably know this, too, by the time you get your Sab, but all signs point to the fact that Rearick has been married for some time, and right under our noses, too. Some of the freshmen girls are just finding out that osculation is not the rotation of an electric fan. Ham Edmonds asked that he not be quoted on some of his pre-election statements. Guess Malcolm will have to stay on the lesson now. Dean Miller drops in a little more regularly than some of the students do. It is a shame that the faculty couldn't vote, but I guess that they will get just as much pleasure out of talking; and maybe the dean will share the unguentine. Gab Galloway says that he was sorry that his race between Dowell and Dad Laughlin had to be called off, but Dad refused to give Dowell the indicated handicap of 200 yards in the 220. Jordan has been training to run against Dad, but insists that Dad give up his cane—three legs should beat two. I perched on the window sill while the W. S. G. A. was meeting the other night, but I was too late. All I heard was the Amen; guess Miss May must have made a suggestion. Jack, I would like you more if you had some other dates—haven't you heard a certain girl say this about her boy friend? Most everyone else on the campus has. Another boy joins the list of the dead; Sally surely kills them off in a hurry. I can't see why Dan doesn't make up his mind; guess that he thinks that he is giving all the girls a break. Just a little chirp from a bird, but a new car looks rather bad in the midst of a depression. It is only fair to give credit to the band; they turned out for athletic events when they didn't have a date or anything else to do. The bachelor's club came through in fine shape this year. I think Duke held all the offices and remained the sole member all year; some sweet girl will steal him some day. Cats are death to us birds and I thought I had met my doom one night, but I came to find out that Campbell and Gooch were just on a date.

"Butts wins the undisputed first prize for dumb tricks and say-ings for the year; I am sorry that there isn't room in the Sab to mention them all. Someone might put out a fifteen-volume edition of them some day. Such enthusiasm as is shown by the Pep Squad on all occasions is invigorating to all the student body; the meetings were anything but peaceful; why couldn't this energy have been transferred to the scene of the athletic events? Olive says that the thing that he needs is some lovin'; after April 6 he found it without having a date, though. This Delta work must be profitable when the editor can come out in a new spring suit on that day; guess the due bills were good at the clothing stores. Psychology is a good science and Borberg was convinced that sickness was about to overtake him. Chase is the favorite chocolate company of the dormitories—quite effectively, so I have heard. Cain showed his usual appetite by eating six samples. You just can't beat these Dutchmen for big-heartedness. If Venus says the word, Louie just can't refuse and the Ford is gone again. Lauther and Condon seem to be great friends of the Doctor. One borrows the raincoat for a date with Marg and the other takes it back when he has a date. Snap my garter, but those boys just can't keep time, says a certain music director on the campus.

"I guess that Skippy Sparks will be solicited to shoot all the pigeons that roost on the main building next year, so we won't tell all the news. I hope my children will be doves so as to pacify those offended by his humble parent. Coo coo, till next year."

Yours sincerely,

"DUCE."

VALEDICTORY

THE last page is finished! What a feeling of relief to be able to put the glue pot upon the shelf and to drop the trimming scissors. The typewriter has ceased to clatter, at least it no longer is used in pounding out copy, and our room again resembles something other than a waste basket. The brain-storms and attacks of insomnia, experienced by your editor, now limit themselves to fewer occasions. The twelfth hour has come and with it vanishes the nightmare involving copy, proof and pictures.

The last page is in, and to you we tender the results of the tireless efforts of just another Sabiduria staff. We offer no apologies for our mistakes, because a Sabiduria is complete before we really learn our job.

We are done! At what price completion? It has only cost us a few hours credit in this college, and a once calm and serene disposition has vanished along with some bodily things—our hair has become thinner, wrinkles are more prominent on our forehead, and the color from our cheeks has disappeared. Verily, we love our Sabiduria, for to its good we sacrificed our only begotten courses that its pages might be fruitful and multiply.

The last page is completed. Its completion has not been entirely without joy and rare glimpses of school life. We have appreciated those thoughtful people who wanted to help us with the Sabiduria and who know more about editing a yearbook than we do, even though they never saw an engraver's proof or a printer's copy sheet—the people who bubble over with a desire to work on school annuals and think it all play until they begin.

The last page done and we extend our thanks to: Mr. Ropkey of the Indianapolis Engraving Co., and Mr. Laupheimer of Botz Printing Co., our photographers for their cooperation, and members of the faculty and administration of Missouri Valley College for their aid and suggestions; we thank all who have helped us and to whom thanks are due, and, above all, we thank the Lord that we are done!

To all future Sabiduria editors we extend greetings. Some people attend school, some work, others play, some do both and annually one is sentenced to confinement in editing a Sabiduria.

JOE NICHOLS, JR.,
Editor

Professor Ferguson delivers several graduation addresses over at "The Hub" each spring. Once he dwelt at great length on the value of education, pausing, of course, to eulogize the cave-man, who achieved a great deal without any education. Then he painted a dark picture of the uneducated masses today. An enterprising reporter for the county-seat paper turned in the story, stating that "Prof. Ferguson's address showed lack of education."

CONSTITUTION OF THE SIGMA NU FRATERNITY

We, an extraordinary body, in order to awe the young ladies of the campus, in order to be the political power of the campus and in order to satiate the ambition of J. Carson Dowell, do hereby ordain this Constitution for the Beta Gamma chapter of Sigma Nu.

ARTICLE I. The emblem of this organization shall be the snake. In order to veil the meaning, the grass shall always be omitted.

ARTICLE II. Periodically, this organization shall conduct a general student election, so as to make the students think they are running things after all.

ARTICLE III. At any given moment, at least six members of this chapter will be on the Student Senate.

ARTICLE IV. The pin of this fraternity will have five points, each of which shall represent a girl friend whose vote the wearer will swing in any and all elections.

ARTICLE V. THE LAWS OF THIS FRATERNITY:

1. Thou shalt not vote for a Delta Kappa.
2. Thou shalt not humble thyself before any man, unless you can get his vote by doing it.
3. Honor Carson Dowell and Harold Berning.
4. Thou shalt pledge no man who knows better.
5. Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself, if thy neighbor is also a Sigma Nu.

CONSTITUTION OF THE DELTA KAPPA FRATERNITY

We, thirty astronomers, in order to furnish the campus with runners-up and in order to prove how inanimate the human body and mind can really be, do hereby organize the Alpha Delta Kappa fraternity and do ordain this Constitution therefor.

ARTICLE I. This fraternity shall watch every move of the Sigma Nu fraternity and shall ape as many of these as well as is feasible.

ARTICLE II. This fraternity shall gain the nomination and allow the defeat for student offices of at least ten of its members annually.

ARTICLE III. Lest this organization be suspected of positiveness, it shall never take a definite action on anything.

ARTICLE IV. The pin of this fraternity will be in the form of a triangle representing Faith, Hope, and Charity, and the greatest of these is Hope.

ARTICLE V.

THE LAWS OF THIS FRATERNITY:

1. If at first you don't succeed, try, try again.
2. We shall show a fraternal spirit to anybody who can pay the $3.98 initiation fee.
3. Everything cometh to him who waits.
